The Dispossessed of Britain's Farmlands

By ROBERT B. SEMPLE Jr. GREAT BIRCHAM, England, Aug. 17—About two miles before Great Bircham, on the right-hand side of the road leading to king's Lynn, lies Heath Farm. The farm holds 1,000 cattle and half holds 1,000 cattle and hait as many sheep, but it is a curiously lifeless place, perhaps because life seems to have gone out of the people in the old stone farmhouse. "Friends don't stop by very often," says Arthur Watterson, who until a mooth ago did all the day-to-day chores. "When you're done like this, nobody speaks to you."

Mr. Wattersoo is a bulk of nobody speaks to you."

Mr. Wattersoo is a bulk of a man, built for farming, with broad shoulders and massive forearms. But today he is merely pathetic—beateo, bewildered, barely able to grasp, much less fight, tha sudden ahift in his fortunes. All be knowa, he says, is that he is the latest victim of Britain's semifeudal system of "tied cottages."

Mr. Watterson lives in a tied cottage, so-called because he can live io it only as long as his farmer employs him. When he went into a hospital for an asthmatic condition in March, his employer—a Dane who lives employer—a Dane who lives nearby — decided that Mr. Watterson was no longer fit to work the farm. So he ordered him off the job and out of the house that went with the job. Mr. Watterson has four weeks to find a oew

The system of tied cottages is now a major political issue here. There are about 100,000 farmworkers living in tied cottages, more than half the total farm workforce in Britain, and the Labor Government wants to give them more security of tenure. A bill has passed the House of Commons, and is oow under consideration in the House of Lords, that would protect a tenant farmer un-less the owner could demon-strate in court that the tenant was no looger a useful employee and that be needed the house to attract an "es-sential" incoming worker. The local housing authority would then be obliged to use its "best effort" to rehouse its "best effort" to rehouse the displaced tenant.

The left wing of the Labor Party says the bill is not strong enough, that once a man is installed in a house he should remain in it. This is the main principle of the country's Rent Act — a powerful law covering most ordinary tenants and making it virtually impossible for landlords to evict them. The farmowoers, however, say

farmowoers, however, say the bill will involve them in endless litigation and weaken their ability to use tied cot-tages to attract the labor

Translated Into Law Like many issues in Britain, logical overtones that may or may not bear any relation-ship to practical realities. Year after year, at its annual year after year, at its annual conferences, the Labor Party has pledged to "reform" tied cottages, much as it has pledged to eliminate pay beds in public nosphals, to require all children to go to comprehensive schools, and to nationalize industries regardless of whether they gardless of whether they need nationalizing. These pledges become part of the party's "manifesto," and—in a country where manifesto commitments are taken much more seriously than are party platforms in the United States—they are nearly always translated into

According to surveys, how-ever, the farmworker himself ever, the farmworker himself is of two minds about the system. Mr. Watterson represents the unacceptable face of the system, a reminder of how it can be manipulated by a whimsical employer who, without justifying his actions, can loss a proud man and a wife and three children onto a housing market that is already overburket that is already overbur-

Alfred John Spooner, employed by a farmer at Great Bircham, England, is a strong believer in the system of "tied cottages." He said he never had trouble with his employer.

"Started when I was 14. Farmed 36 years. Then one day Mr. Brun comes over the hill in a big Mercedes and tells me I have 28 days to leave. That's how you finish: down and out at 50." But until he ran afoul of

But until he ran afoul of his employer — there may have been a personality clash as well as "medical" reasons behind the dismissal — Mr. Watterson was also a beneficiary of the system. His rent was only £1.50 a week—less than $3, and ooe-fifth the cost of good public housing. By law, British agricultural workers are paid $80 a week and overtime is plentiful in harvest and planting seasons.

Alfred John Spooner, who works down the road near Billingford, feels differently about the system. His round face is as burned and smooth as the Norfolk fields around him, and he would not take a city job if you offered him double the money. "I've been working here 40 years. I live in one of the tied cottages and my son in the other. We pay about £1 a week, and the farmers pays the maintenance and taxes. If you get sick, they mostly look after you well. If I don't want to work overtime I don't. I get along with the guy'ner, and he with me."

Alfie Spooner says that without the attraction of tied cottages, young men wouldn't come to work on the farms, and would go instead to the big cities and the factories.

"You take my other son," he said. "He's a carsoraver he said. "He's a carsprayer at Leylands. Makes good money, but he pays £8.50 in rent each week, plus rates. It's the cheap housing that gets them hack to the farm."

Mr. Spooner's "pur'ner" in Mr. Spooner's "guv'ner" is Michael Garrod a lean, well-educated 44-year-old who took the farm over from his father in the late 1940's, in-vested heavily in modern equipment, and raises hay, wheat and barley oo 600 He is a member of the National Farmers Union, which has opposed the tied cottages bill, but he is hardly a fanatic on the subject. He thinks that reform is overdue, that meo like Mr. Wattersoo bave beeo unfairly treated and ahould have rights of appeal.

Mr. Garrod also thinks that no legislation at all would be necessary if owner and work-er could develop an honest relationship built oo mutual trust and a shared affection for the land.

But Arthur Wattersoo'a af-fection for the land belooging to Mr. Brun has left him with nothing to show for it. Nor did his affection for another farm he lived on several years ago do him much good when the farmer decided to sell and the new owners brought in a fresb crew of workers.

"That's two evictiona in five years," Mr. Wattarson says. "Get a good farmer, and you're all right. Get a couple of twisters like I've had, and they'll do anything. That's why we need a law. When a farmer sack you, aomebody got to find you aoother empty house."

Following is the text of o statement on plans for the independence of South-West Africa, as made available by the South African Embassy in the United Stotes.

During the first meeting of the Constitutional Conference in September 1975 a declaration of intent was is-sued in which certain principles were laid down and certain aims were established.

We hereby reaffirm this decleration of intent and re-iterate our conviction that a real and permanent solotion for our country's problems can be found on this course. During the recent past a detailed study has been made of different aspects of the overall situation. We are happy to be able to announce that agreement in principle has already been reached io respect of the most important points. In particular we wish to refer to the following: SELF-DETERMINATION AND INDEPENDENCE The committee is in agreement that 31 Dec. 1978 can, with reasonable certainty, be fixed as the date for the in-dependence for South-West Africa. In the meantima many matters will obviously have to be negotiated with South Africa: as for example Walvis Bay, South African Railways, ters, security, etc.

As soon as agreement has been reached on a constitu-tional foundation and the above negotiations completed, we envisage, in terms of maining closely with Prime conference previously. In esMinister John Vorster of South Africa.

Other groups represented in the Windhoek talks had hoped to be able to announce firm plans for an constitution. However, disagreements, some of them involving a right-wing white faction that opposes multiracial government, apparently caused settlement of the constitutional questions to be deferred.

The committee announced that an interim government would take over from the existing territorial authorities as soon as a constitution had been agreed upoo and arrangements made with South Africa oo a number of difficult issues. Rare Time For Israel: No Crises

By WILLIAM E. FARRELL Special to The New York Times

JERUSALEM. Aug. 18— "Israet," said a high-ranking American official recently, "can go for a vacation."

The comment was hyperbolic, coming as it did from someone deeply aware that skifts in Mideastern foreign affairs occur with the speed of the summer darkness that uncertaoniously erases this accient city's mellow golden afternoons.

But there is a grain of truth in the American's observation about the country's position in the international

The temporary absence of the word "crisis" here is largely a result of the bloody warfare in Lebacoc. where the all-but-incomprehensible carnage bas accentuated divisions among the Arab nations and diverted them, momentarily perhaps, from their commitment to the dissolution of Israel.

U.S. Election a Factor

Government officials here also note that the impending American Presidential elections, with both parties for over Jewish voters, has created a full on the diplomatic frunt.

These orificials caution against overrelexation. Last week's terrorist attack on an El Al airliner in Istanbul, in which four person died, is cited as evidence of the oeed for continued vigitance. Israel also expects to be castigated at the current conference of nonaligned nations in Colombo, Sri Lanka. And comes the autumn, Government leaders expect "more shouting against us at the United Nations," as one official put it.

Israelis, at least here in Jerusalem, appear to be taking advantage of what one official described as "some calm." There is also a residual "high" left over from the Israeli rescue of hostages from the hijacked airline at Enlebbe Airport in Uganda last month.

But one military official cautioned against making too much of the Entebbe "high." We are not as euphoric this time as when we won the six-day war in 1967." he said. "That gave way to the despair we felt at the time of the Yom Kippur fighting in 1973."

But "some calm" appears to be enough for many Israelis who are driving around the country on August holidays with suitcases and beach paraphernalia tashed to their cars, or careening along in hired sheruts. The sherut is a car large enough to serve as a small bus that behaves like a roller coaster.

Left behind, at least temporarily, are domestic as well as international worries. The nation's spiraling inflation rate—estimated by some at about 30 percent this year—is a constant cause of concern as the soaring prices of clotbing and other essentials batter the budgets of beavily taxed families already supporting a huge military establishmeot.

Thousands of the nation's small oeighborhood groceries have closed in a three-day protest against a new value-added tax. The merchants say that the Government latest method of increasing its revenues creates a book-keeping burden on them and forces them to harass their customers by subjecting them to time-consuming computations. The grocers' protest has irked the Israeli Minister of Commerce, Haim Bar-Lev, who told newsmen that the shutdowns "prove we need more and more coops supermarkets." The large supermarkets have not taken part in the protest.

Terrorist threats, diplomatic maneuvering, international problems, Arab antipathy, fierce internal politics and major economic threats are all a part of the scenchere. But there is a luil and Israelis who are so often harried by their precarious existence are taking advantage of it.

RHODESIANS CLOSE RELIGIOUS MISSION

SALISBURY, Rhodesia, Aug. 18 (AP)—Rhodesian authorities have ordered the closing of a Congregational church mission as part of a crackdown on missionaries who allegedly are harboring and helping black guerrillas, a government spokesman confirmed today.

The spokesman said the Chikore mission, near the town of Chipinga, about nine miles from the Mozambique border, had been shut down and two South African-born teachers there had been ordered out of the country.

The police also disclosed that an Italian woman doctor working in a northeast Rhodesia; mission had been arrested and accused of treating a wounded guerrilla without reporting him to the authorities.

Helping or falling to report "terrorists" carries a maximum penalty of death under Rhodesian law.

You heard that rumor about waistlines?

Well it's true. All true.

The way fashion's shaping up for fall, the teeny-weeny waist is the one that wins.

And if you've been counting your calories like a smart girl should, you'll start to play your starring role today. Because today's the day you can own our nifty new silhouette for slim and sleek junior sizes 5 to 13.

There's so much young excitement about this coat young designer Carol Cohen has done for Braetan that we'll just give you a quick rundown in anti-alphabetical order.

Starting with W: Wrapme-up and hug-me-tight waistline criss-crosses in back, ties up in front to show off your pretty you-know-what. (In fact, the whole thing wraps to the side for new young dash.)

S: Nice and expensive looking welt seaming, even around the pockets.

H: The hood, very important for fashion and for flattery.

F: This fabric is a soft-butwarm, fleecy blend of wool (80%) and nylon.

D: Deep, turn-back cuffs somehow make your middle look even liddler.

C: Color is a creamy-pale camel, just for luxury.

A: And the price for this great/good news is a not-badat-all 104.00.

Still need convincing that you need a new coat? Come see this and all our bright ideas from Braetan modeled informally today from 12:30 till 2.

Didn't diet this summer? Try some psychology-for-you. Buy Carol's coat and whittle yourself to fit.

NEW TESTS FOUND TO FIGHT DIABETES

Rockefeller U. Researchers Cite Method of Measuring Sugar Levels in Blood

By BAYARD WEBSTER

A new method of measuring the amounts of sugar io human blood has been developed by a group of medical researchers working at Rockefeller University here.

The technique, based on measurements of tha levels of ooe type of hemoglobin in the blood, is expected to provide a more accurate system of monitoring the effectiveness of therapy in victims of diabetes. a disease that afflicts about 10 million Americans.

The oew procedure, according to the researchers, also bolds out the hope that it may evnotually be possible to pinpoint more precisely the relationship between diabetes and its secondary life-threatening complications, such as kidney. heart, eye and vascular ailmeots, which occur more often in diabetics than in nondia-

The results of the scientists' research, conducted on five hospitalized diabetics and 30 diabetic outpatieots, are described in today's issue of The New England Journal of Madicine. A supportive editorial accompanies the report.

Metabolic Disorder

Diabetes, known in its most common form as diabetes melli-tus, cao produce weakness, weight loss, fatigue and excessive urination, depending on its severity. These symptoms are caused by a chronic metabolic disorder in which the body's ability to break down and metabolize sugar in the blood is impaired or lost, usually be-cause of a hormonal insulin deficiency.

Therapy consists of insulin injections in the more severe cases and, in less severe cases. oral doses of chemicals that control the symptoms of abnormal amounts of sugar in the blood. The type and amount of therapy depend on regular monitoriog of blood sugar

Current monitoriog methods current monitoring methods consist of blood and urine tests that disclose the amounts of blood sugar present at the time of the test, But, because blood sugar levels are subject to wide daily fluctuations, the existing methods are relatively impressional they are conducted cise unless they are conducted on ao almost daily basis.

Parallel Chances

Aware that recent laboratory studies had shown that cooceotratioos of ooe type of bemo u io Tisq Tem) nidole that transports oxygen from the lungs to the body tissues) increased significantly in the diabetic state, the researchers found that changes io diabetics' blood sugar levels caused changes in the levels of the nemoglobin component.

Thus, if a patient's therapy was altered to further lower his blood sugar levels, a propor tionate reduction in the hemo-globin component occurred.

In addition, the researchers noted that the hemoglobin levels changed at a relatively slow rate, indicating that the quantity of the hemoglobio component mounted slowly component mounted slowly over a period co weeks as it developed in the blood, reaching its quantitative level ac-cording to its average environ-

Thus, a single measurement of hemoglobin level reflected the mean amount of sugar in the blood and reflected the de-gree of diabetic control a pa-tient had achieved for the previous weeks or months.

This quality of the hemoglohin fraction—maintaining its level according to the mean amount of sugar in the blood—would enable physicians to order relatively infrequent measurements of hemogrobin to determine whether a patient was maintaining the proper diabetic control.

Objective Assessment

In addition, the researchers said, the use of the new tech-nique should provide an objecnique should provide an objective and more comprehensive assessment of the way diabetics metabolize blood sugar. This, in turn, should make it possible to note more precisely the correlation between sugar metabolism rates in diabetics and the development of second.

and the development of second-ary complications and illnesses. Dr. Charles Peterson of Rockefeller University, co-lead-er of the research group, said rinat arrangements for a pro-pective study of diabetics, using the team's new methods, were already under way. Such a survey, comparing diabetics and their degree of control of he disease with their subsequent illnesses or lack of them n ensuing years, could estab-ish a relationship between the legree of control of blood sugar and the development of related illments.

In addition to Dr. Peterson. he researchers were Dr. An-hony Cerami, co-leader, Dr hristopher Saudek of Cornell Jedical College and Dr. Mark ehrman of Beth Israel Medical

Capsized Acid Barge Is Secured; COURT WIDENS CURB nois chairman o fStop ERA, and Patricia Boehnke, its Spring-ON E.R.A. LOBBYISTS field, Ill., chairman, brought the Virginia Evacuees Return Home

MATHEWS, Va., Aug 18 (AP)

—An acid-laden barge capsized in the Chesapeake Bay four miles offshore early today, causing the evacuation of 3,000 residents along a five-mile stretch of shore.

The barge was secured by the Coast Guard tonight, and most of the evecuees returned to their homes.

The 125-foot barge, which was going to the Allied Chemical Corporation plant in Hopewell. Va.. with 1,000 toos of wilfride acid and the irritant sulfuric acid and the irritant chemical Oleum, flipped over offshore from rural Mathews

Betty Ford, who had watched the earlier proceedings, had already left the half, but from the box where her children sat to the loftiest seats high above the milling floor, the noise filled the arena like air swelling a balloon. Although hundreds of downcast supporters of Ronaid Reagan contributed little to the pro-Ford din, they participated in the moment, lend-ing to it the air at least of a party united-in noise.

The Reaganites had come to the hall holding fast to the possibility of a miracle, and from the opening gavel they seemed determined to hold off the inevitable as long as possible.

The floor, as usual, was a madding, milling jumble of bodies, posters, banners, standards, flags, and delegates. Surveying the confusion before him early in the evening, Representative John J. Still, despite the apparent sense of good times, the smaltest applause of the evening was prompted by Senalor Paut Laxalt's proinise, during his nominating speech for Mr. Reagan, that hoth of them would support the party's nominee, "regardless of what happens here tonight."

That Mr. Ford won the pivotal procedural fight last night in his drive to capture the Republican Presidential nomination was a tribute to the ladvantage of iocumbency.

The moment came tonight. A majority, however frail, however slender, of the delegates seemed poised to decide it would be more provident to run fc. the White House from the White House, rather than without the executive mansion and against Washington.

Even before the balloting began tonight, John P. Sears, the Reagan campaign manager, in effect conceded the outcome and identified its cause. "The problems of a race against an incumbent," he said, "are that once you show your band, all kinds of pressures can be used against you."

Despite that truism, until scarcely two weeks before the convention opened lo Kansas City, Mr. Reagan's formidable talents as an orator and a political leading man seemed a dead-even match for the President's capacity to manipulate the levers of governmental and party power.

Mr. Reagan rode the same to decide it will find the President "has no base at all" from which to mount his campaign.

In competing with his ideological rival, Mr. Ford had 10 move steadily to the right philosophically. But against Mr. Carter. a former Georgia Governor presumed to be dominant in the South, Mr. Ford must find some way to appeal to the more progressive, or et least centrist, electorate of the Middle Atlantic.

Furthermore, Mr. Ford starts out not from the customary President's position—ahead in the contest—but well behind Mr. Carter in the polls.

Still the Nov. 2 election could be closer than now seems likely. The President plans a determined attempt to attack and anger Mr. Carter, boping to provoke him into miscalculations. And he is, for whatever it proves in the next contest to be worth, already where shown a distinct preference for meeting in air-conditioned hotel suites and lobbies rather than whooping it up in the swelteriog streets of Kansas City. Nevertheless, as the luncheon and the unity talk were going on inside the Muehlebach Hotel, there was a pavement playlet of sorts going on just outside, along 11th Street.

Mr. Reagan rode the same test to be worth, already where evident tide of anti-Washington he wants to wind up, in the sentiment that swept Jimmy White House.

Teen-aged volunteers waved placards and chanted when each candidate's black limousine pulled up to the botel. They yelled F.O.R.D. Ford can win," and "we want Reagan, we want Reagan." A dozen Yippies, obviously under strength, chanted, "We want Nixon, we want Nixon."

A high school pep-up band and a five-olece Dixieland band provided accompaniment. For awhile ail the demonstrators did their chanting to the beats of "It's a grand Old Flag" and
"Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey."

A bearded man who said his name was Edward H. Collins, the "Nude Candidate," bounced his banner to the beat. He said that when he unveiled his candidacy yesterday by removing his clothes in a parking lot, he was arrested and spent the night in jail. He said a mysterious contributor posted his $25 bond, allowing him to return to campaigning today.

When the President and Mrs. Ford left the luncbeon, the top of the Presidential limousine was flopped back, the Fords mounted the jump seat and waved to the crowd. Photographers raced around trying to capture Betty Ford waving in the direction of the Yippies, who were waving their banners at her.

As the First Family's vehi-cle pulled slowly down 11th Street, the scene resembled a ticker-tape parade, but only for about 30 feet. When the motorcade turned left on Baltimore Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Ford found themselves at a nearly empty street.

Mary Grawe, a member of the League of Women Voters, meanwhile, pounded the pavement soliciting signa-tures for a televised debate between the candidates.

"We're doing okay with the Republicans," she said. "I thought not many of them would sign because of what happened to Nixon when he debated John Kennedy.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug 18—It was an agonizing climb. Anyone with less tolerance and more ego might never have endured. Yet even as he scaled each ob-on through increasingly inclein the ment weather toward the right to claim in his own name the aummit of the Republican Party, Gerald R. Ford knew that his Presi-dential nomination would be but another plateau.

For ahead lay one more mountainous slope—the huge head start and early advantage of the Democratic flag bearer—and scant time to surmount it. The 38th President of the United States are almost to have been marked by fate for tests of doggedness; he also seemed doggedness; he also seemed curiously equipped to survive

Not until his late teens did be learn, with stunning auddenness, the existence and identity of his real father. He earned his high school and university diplomas while working at menial Demosphere. working at menial Depression era tasks.

Plodding Steps

Beyond all that, the politi-cal career of Jerry Ford, though it spanned nearly three decades, could be measured in plodding steps: A seat in Congress, a toehold on party responsibility, lead-ership of the House minority and a never-successful pur-suit of the power of Speaker of the House that ended only when he became an acciden-tal President confronted with a lost Asian war, a sinking economy and a political base withered by the effects of Watergate.

That Mr. Ford withstood the indignities inherent in a challenge from within his party for the right to seek a full term in the White House, a challenge that threatened to prevail, was the ultimate illustration of the basic elements of his

He is a common man, common not in any perjorative sense, but in a recognition of fundamental ingredients devotion to homespun virtues, an uninspiring style of rhetoric, a pliability but not a softness, an intellect that is instinctive more often than imaginative, and beneath it all, the appearance of human decency—that mark bis per-sonality as that of an un-remarkable man in a remark-

he told an interviewer early this year, "that I am no great William Jennings Bryan technique. But I am not sure that the American people want that"

Perhaps. But the American people will announce what they want on Nov. 2.

What seems incontestable is Mr. Ford's capacity to withstand trials that other men could easily have found overwhelming.

Memorable Phrase

"Our long national night-mare is over," he said in the most memorable phrase of the most memorable speech of his two years in the White House, the very first one he gave on that August day of 1974, just as Richard M. Nixon was somewhere over this convention state on a flight home to exile and Gerald Rudolph Ford Jr. was becoming the nation's Presi-

What followed were some harsh nights for the fledgling President, some of them self-imposed. After a one-month national intoxication with White House but made his nwn breakfast toast and was so free of self-importance that he could rise after midnight to escort the family dog on a search for a handy tree, Gerald Ford pardoned Mr.

His popularity plummeted, and has yet to rise to its ini-tial height. The clamor was such that Mr. Ford was enm-pelled to make an extraordinary appearance under oath before a House subcommittee to defend the pardon ss an attempt to put Watergate bchind the nation and face up to other tribulations.

There were, to be sure, problems enough. They anpeared with what must have een, to a White House and an Administration trying to tearn the locations of the levers of power, a maddening regularity.

After proclaiming a muchballyhooed campaign against inflation as the No. I domestic enemy, Mr. Ford had to make an about-face and abandon the "win" buttonst stood for "Whip Inflation in a galling recogni-that unemployment would flatten the economy unless the economy was hcated anew, however brief-A boycott of the United

Mayaguez, an American cargo ship, from Cambodian captors was a gesture of re-solve of which the President was so proud that the ship's wooden wheels still occupies a place of honor in his White House office. But it coat still more American lives and es-calated criticism of Mr. Ford. Tests of Will

He became embroiled in increasingly determined tests of will with a Congress domi-nated by Democrats. More than two score vetoes were signed by this President, who had hoped for friendly ac-commodation with a legislative branch in which he had long been a popular and re-spected compromiser.

The size of the Congresand size of the Congressional opposition was enlarged in the 1974 elections, despite a futile scamper across the country by Mr. Ford in search of more Republican allies.

The disclosure of illegal demestic activities by the variable of the control of the contro domestic activities by the nation's intelligence community plunged Mr. Ford into yet another controversy.

When he traveled widely and regularly in 1975 to attempt to rebuild his party before this national election year, two women lo Califor-nla almed handguns at the President, and one of them fired. He refused to give up the political venture and was scorned by his critics for tak-

The frequency of his journeys here and abroad also increased his opportunities to fall on airplane stairs, bump head against the side of the White House helicopter and engage in a rhetorical lapse now and then, for example, that Paul Revere's historic signal had been "one if by day and two if by night." For a time, he was the butt of every comedian's jokes. And finally he had to sub-mit to the challenge by for-mer Gov. Ronald Reagan of California for the Republican nomination, a challenge that he thought did not need to occur and for which he and his political silies had made insufficient preparation.

Not long before he became President, Mr. Ford said: "Ail my life I've had somewhat difficult circumstances. personally, politically and otherwise."

Child Was Adopted It was to be oo different, secmed, even, at the seat of American authority. But, as he also noted, "one's training fits one for even the toughest kind of problems." He was the first to admit that he was "a Ford, not a Lincoln."

But he was not always a Ford. He was born July 14, 1913, in Omaha, Neb., to Leslie Lynch King and Dorothy King. He was christened Leslie Lynch King Jr., which he was not to discover until 17 years later.

When he was 2 years old, his mother divorced Mr. King and took the child with her to Grand Rapids, Mich. When she remarried, her husband, Gerald Ford, the president of a modest Grand Rapids paint and varnish company, adopt-ed the child and gave him bis name. bis name.

At the age of 17, when he was a high school footbail star, his parents told him that he was the product of a broken home. Only a few months later, in an incident he described years afterward as startling a man ap-proached Mr. Ford in the small restaurant where he earned $2 a week waiting on tables to help pay for his schooling.
"Leslie," the stranger said.

"I'm your father." Mr. Ford withstood his initial discomfort with the discovered circumstances of his infancy and maintained a sporadic contact with Mr. King until the latter's death.

He had offers to play professional football with the Green Bay Packers and the Detroit Lions. But instead he attended Yale Law School and alternated semesters there with seasons as an assistant coach of the football and boxing teams.

It was Mr. Ford's athleticism that years later inspired political opponents, among them President Johnson, to say that he had played foot-ball too long without a hel-met, and that he could not "chew gum and walk at the same time." If he was not exactly a scholar, Mr. Ford nooetheless finished in the top third of his law school graduating class, with a "B" average. And he could guffaw when he won the first five Republican primaries last spring, and Republicant in the second state of the can primaries last spring, and Representative James G. Martin introduced him to a North Carolina campaign audience by saying that the President had "proved to partisan cynics that he can chew gum and win elections at the same time."

Joined the Navy Fresh from law school, he joined Phillip W. Buchen, now the Wbite House legal couosel, in establishing a law practice in their hometown. Nine months later, in 1942,

Mr. Ford joined the Navy as an ensign. He served until the war ended, winning 10 battle stars an lieutenant commander rank, and nearly lost bis life when a typhoon struck the Third Fleet in the Pacific just before Christmas in 1944, Mr. Ford, topside on an aircraft carrier, came within inches of being swept off the yawing deck. After the war he estab-lished himself, comfortably, in a large Grand Rapids law firm. At the bidding of Sens-tor Arthur H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids. Mr. Ford ran for the House of Representatives in 1948. He won, in part because his opponent was tied down in Washington by President Trumao's session, but also through tireless sweeps across the cornfields and into the towns of the sprawling Fifth Con-gressional District of Michigan. It was an upset. Io October of that year, just before the election, Mr. Ford married Elizabeth Bloomer Warreo, whose previous marriage had ended in divorce. She had been a model and fashion coordinator and spent two years in New York City as a dancer in Martha Graham's troupe. Mr. Ford, the nervous bride-groom, strode down the aisle wearing one black shoe and one brown shoe.

Mrs. Ford was, and is, selfpossessed. Her views someames conflicted with those of the President, and her outspokeness on such matters as abortion, feminism and the rearing of the four Ford children—Mike, 26 years old; Jack, 24; Steve, 20, and Susan, 18—caused occasional controversy in the election campaign this year. Everywhere she appeared with the President, however, she was greeted by tumultuous ap-plause, and Mr. Ford kept saying, with pretended cha-grin, that she had more supporters than he did.

It was mostly Mrs. Ford who reared the children as her husband inched his way to prominence in the House Representatives. He became a member of the Warren Commission, the chairman of the party's caucus and, in another of his successful uphill fights, the minority leader in 1964, bis 15th year in the House.

Veterans of Past Struggles on Hand To Watch Reagan-Ford Showdown

By RICHARD L. MADDEN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18—A frail Henry Cabot Lodge maneuvered his way to a hotel doorway so that Vice Prasideot Rockefeller would see him and stop to shake bands.

Ray C. Bliss, now just a delegate from Ohio, greeted old friends on a downtown sidewalk but some delegates passed by without a sign of recognition.

Mr. Lodge, the Vice-Presi-dential candidate in 1960; Mr. Bliss a former national chairman, and Mr. Gold-water, the party's Presiden-tial nominee in 1964, and many of the bull elephants of the great Republican struggies of the recent past— Eisenhower vs. Taft in Chica-go in 1952 and Goldwater, vs. Rockefeller in San Francisco Rockefeller in San Francisco in 1964—were here for the Ford-Reagan sbowdown.

Address by Landon But there wes a difference this time. They were merely part of the cast with an occasional solo appearance. The directing was being done by a newer generation. "Time catches up with everyone, of course, but 1'm enjoying this one as much as any convention," said Leslie C. Arends, the 80-year-old former Representative from

Illinois who has attended every Republican convention since 1936. Mr. Arends, who was the House Republican whip when Gerald R. Ford was minority leader, has been doing missionary work in the Illinois delegation and elsewhere to try to help President Ford.

"He's my kind of guy," said
Mr. Arends.

Even Alf M. Landon, the party's Presidential candidate in 1936, made the trip from Topeka to Kansas City Monday night at the age of 88 to eddress the convention.

"I quit going some time ack," Mr. Landon said. "I wouldn't have gone to the convention this time if I hadn't been asked. But as I've said, the crowds are just as exciting but they are more exhausting.

Mr. Landon, who said he did not plan to ettend the final convention sessions tonight or tomorrow, said he had found "one difference worth remembering" from past conventions. And there are other veter-ans on hand as well, such as former Senator William E. But there are others who did not make it to Kansas City and are watching on television at home with their memories. Leonard W. Hall, who headed the Republican National Committee from 1953 to 1957, took the advice of his doctor to avoid the heat and the crowds and remained on Long Island, missing his first convention since 1936. "I'd be fibbing if I said I don't miss it somewhat," he said in a telephone interview. "If I could, I'd cast an absen-tee ballot."

Has he seen any differences in this convention?

in this conventioo?

"They tell me that Mary Louise Smith [the party national chairman] gaveled the convention to order at the time set on the schedule."

Mr. Hall said. "I think that's something new."

William E. Miller, the party's vice-Presidential can-didate in 1964, remained in Lockport, N.Y., after catch-ing what he described as "walking pneumonia" after some campaign appearances for Mr. Ford.

Does he miss it?

"Well, yes," Mr. Miller replied. "You know it brings back a lot of fond memories. Every time someone comes to the podium—my running mate Barry, My Governor, Nelson, for whom I campaigned in 1968, my old colleague Bob Dole and John Rhodes, and on and onyou'd like to reach through the tube and talk to them." "But that's the way it goes," he continued "Time marches on. It's time for new faces and new ideas. Old soldiers do die, despite what Douglas MacArthur said.

The foreign policy plank of the Republican platform was under discussion on Tuesday night on the convention floor, among Senator Roman L. Hruska, left, of Nebraska, Senator Strom Thutmond, center, of South Carolina and Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts.

New Yorkers and Hosts Mixing Well

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18—Slow hotel elevators. Slow restaurant waiters. Slow taxicabs. Slow talk.

The persistent good cheer exemplified by the local folks has bad to overcome a certain modesty in the accomo-dations offered to the New Yorkers. Their city swal-lowed the Democratic convention with scarcely a trace. This city's far more limited facilities have been strained to the limit by the Republi-cans; some delegations are boused miles away from downtown, and the New Yorkers, while close in, are not living in luxury.

Convention on TV: Muddled Impression

By JOSEPH LELYVELD

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18]Roger Mudd had hidden them--Seen as a television ahow, selves away in a corner of the the Republican National Contrailer to follow the deliberavention has had much to recommend it over the TV spectacular the Democrats produced in New York last month. The Republican convention has had suspense, emotion and telephone line was competing had suspense, emotion and even laughs.

But seeo as the major opportunity the Republican Party will have in the political season to presect in a austaiced way its caodidates and themes to the nation, the convection has conveyed a muddled impression The best that can be said is that the Republicans have avoided the worst fate that might have befallen them on the tube: The party has oot torn itself apart and cannibalized itself in front of the cameras.

On Monday night, a auccession of speakers managed to convey a sense of unity by keeping up a running attack on Jimmy Carter, the Democratic nominee. This was especially the case on NBC, which stayed tuned in to the oratory while ABC was hringing viewers left over frum their Monday night, baseball game up to date, and CBS was providing interviews with delegates plus dollops of wry commentary.

Cameras Less Restless

New York delegations severed telephone line, was competing for attention. The line had been cut by a Utah delegate, it developed, after the shirtsleeved Mr. Rockefeller had taken a Reagan sign from a North Carolina delegate.

Given these diversions and the periodic breaks io the TV coverage for commercials, the dehate on the Reagan proposal as the eveniog's main event "we've heen asked to explain what's happening." John Chancellor of NBC said in a plaintive voice shortly before 10 o'clock.

Explaining was not easy, but the distractions seemed to work to the henefit of Mr. Ford All the networks carried the speech by former Representative Thomas Curtis, a Reagan backer, who argued that the chooled the president's commotion.

Still, TV viewers had the selected of the President's campaign chairman and the desperate straits.

Jack Ford, the President's son, handled the question deftly when it was put to him hy Walter Cronkite, the CBS

But the usual answer-coming not only from the comators hut also from some of Mr. Ford's supporters—re-flected poorly on his skills as a politician and his perform-ance in the White House. On CBS, Bill Moyers said Mr. Ford had failed to master his office. On ABC, Frank Reynolds said that he noted "a colossal lack of enthusiasm" for Mr. Ford's candidacy.

It was the antithesis of the questions and answers that dominated TV coverage of the Democratic convention, which dwelled on the startling rise of Jimmy Carter and the candidate's skillfulness in winning his party's Presidential nomina-

Last night, the plot of the Republican convention took a new turn. Most of the speakers had to drop the subject of Mr. Carter, and the commentators eased up on the theme of Mr. Ford's alleged ineptitude. The story now was how the Presi-dent's side had pulled ahead in the hard-fought contest with former Gov. Ronald Reagan of

A Variety Show

But in the telling of it there was little time or opportunity to give Mr. Ford credit. Even the crucial dehate over the change in the rules that Mr. Reagan's adhereots were seeking to force teoded to get lost in a variety show of hijinks that sometimes verged on slap-

First there was the contest between Nancy Reagan in a shimmering red dress and Betty Ford in a hright yellow dress for the acclaim of the delegates. Then there was the flap in the Mississippi delegation over a headline suggestiog that Mr. Ford would write off the 'cotton South" that a Birmingham newspaper had put oo an interview with Rogers C.B.

ABC discovered the flap huti Dan Rather of CBS caught up with Mr. Morton on the floor and cajoled him into visiting the Mississippi delegation. The campaign chairman's hulking figure could then be seen mov-ing slowly across the floor, followed by the antenna worn as a headdress by the TV reporter who was providing a step-by-step commentary. Reenforcements from ABC and NBC could then be seen converging on Mr. Morton like football linemen. Finally, ABC's Sam Donaldson managed to take out Mr. Rather with a

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

Most top-ranked experts have aggressive, colorful personalities, and many of them are willing to tell anyone who will listen that they are the best in the world. In contrast, there are one or two quiet, modest men who are among the hest in the world but do not feel called on to say so.

A case io point is Fred Hamilton of Los Angeles, a member of the American team that took the world title last May by defeating the Italian Blue Team for the first time in history. When he brought home a difficult game cootract in the Spin-gold Knockout teams in Salt Lake City recently by means of a difficult squeeze, he was not eager to take credit. He just wanted to know the name of the squeeze, but none of the experts present were able to tell him.

Diamond Ace Wins

The hidding followed a normal route to three no-trump. Hamilton's jump rehid of two no-trump with the South cards showed 19 or 20 points, and his partner strug-gled oo to game. One would expect West to lead a spade, but he chose the diamood five, which did oo harm as it turned out.

Hamilton woo the diamond jack with the ace, and returned the diamood ten. West won with the queen and shifted to a spade wheo his partner played ao en-couraging card in that suit. East ducked, the queen won, and South worked on clubs. He cashed the A-K, noting the fall of the ten. He then eight sure South tricks, assuming one in hearts, but no normal way to achieve a ninth. However, the lead of the club queen squeezed West in a strange way. He could not spare a red card, so he reloctantly gave up another spade. East's Spades Blocked

The effect of this was to put East's spades out of business when South led a heart. West put up the teo and East had to wio the queen with the ace. East returned a spade to the ace, and South then had two ways to make two of the last foor tricks: He could play hearts to force a diamond lead from West,

To Plan a Surprise, Take Care To Avoid Being Surprised

By ROBERT BYRNE

When you want to surprise an opponent with a pre-pared variation, considerable advance planning is often necessary. If you head di-rectly for a confrontation with a counterattack with which he has had great success, he's going to suspect that something's fishy and avoid his known method of play.

Consider how Vitaly Zeshkovsky, a Russian grand-master, duped the United States champion, Walter Browe, in the 14th round of the Manila Interzonal Tour-

Only a Ploy Zeshkovsky's planning got under way two weeks before, in the second round, when he played his country-man Lev Polugaevsky, who favors some of the same Najdorf Sicilian variations that Browne does. Zeshkovsky went only part of the way with his attack, then branched off and soon settled for an amicable draw. Seeing that game, Browne would have gotteo the impression that Zeshkovsky was uncertain how to handle this opening.

Moreover, Zeshkovsky reenforced that impression by dawdling over his opening moves against Browne. What he really had in readiness was a startling knight sacri-fice that gave White a tre-mendous attack.

Against Polugaevsky, Zeshkovsky had played 8 P-B4, P-QN4; 9 P-B5, but against Browne he switched to the sharper 8 P-KN4. Then it would have been safer for Black to play 8 . . . N-B4, but Browne had had success with his tricky 8 . . . P-R3 against me in the 1975 United States championship and was convinced the coming complications favored Black.

A retreat of the KN with

Come To "Pioneer Week" At The Hifi Show.

See all the major brands, all in one place.

One thing that makes Tech Hifi more like a show than an ordinary store, is the fact that we disolay more of the latest models from all the major manufacturers...including Pioneer's exciting new line of elegantly-styled high performance stereo receivers.

What's more, our soundrooms are specially-equipped so you can instantly compare any combinations of these components, just by pressing a button.

So feel free to drop by The Hifi Show any time this week to hear what's new from T-Pioneer and all the other quality manufacturers. Admission's free!

Talk to hifi experts.

While you're at The Hifi Show, you can spend as much time talking with our hifi experts as you like... without being made to feel like you have to spend money.

All Tech salespeople go through comprehensive training in all aspects of hifi. So when you ask them a question, they can give you an answer right away, without hemming and having, or having to resort to technical gobblygook.

Our knowledgeable, low pressure, salespeople are one of the fundamental differences between Tech Hifi and any other place you can buy hifi.

They're one very good reason why, even if you're not thinking about buying hifi right now, you'll enjoy coming in to The Hifi Show.

Listen to these great "show-dead-flat response all priced" Pioneer systems.

This week. The Hifi Show is featuring two professionally-matched home music systems centered-around stereo receivers from Pioneer. As a result, we don't think you'll find better-sounding systems for the money.

(Remember, these-and any other systems you find at Tech Hifi are covered by our fourteen Customer Satisfaction Guarantees including a 7-day 100% Moneyback Satisfaction Guarantee, and a 30-day Price Protection Policy that quarantees you the lowest price.)

> 329 Come in to The Hifi Show this week to hear our $329 system with the Pioneer SX-434 stereo receiver (pictured at the right), KLH 101 loudspeakers, and a Garrard 440M turntable.

Not only does the Pioneer receiver deliver lots of power with very little distortion (15 watts minimum RMS per channel from 40 to 20,000 Hz. at 8 ohms - with no more than 0.8% T.H.D.), but its FM performance compares with many fine receivers selling for $100 more!

That's plenty of power to get room-filling volume levels with efficient KLH 101 two-way loudspeakers, not to mention smooth overall response.

The Garrard 440M automatic turntable with a Pickering magnetic cartridge complete this system. Together, they'll keep your records sounding great play after play.

$629 Another system (lower right) you'll want to audition while you're at The Hifi Show this week, is designed around the brand-new Pioneer SX-650 stereo receiver, but also boasts high performance components from Ohm Acoustics and B*I*C!

The dynamite-looking Pioneer SX-650 pumps out a full 35 watts minimum RMS per channel (at 8 ohms), into any frequency from 20 to 20,000 Hz. with no more than 0.3% Total Harmonic Distortion.

The optimally-vented Ohm D2 loudspeakers make good use of this power because they were mathematically designed to deliver the way down to 37 Hz. with extremely high efficiency.

And the B*I*C programmable turn-

REAL LOSSES, IMAGINARY GAINS. By Wright MORRIS, 186 pages, Harper & Row. $8.95. In his classic history "The Great Plains," Walter Prescott Webb saw that region across the wide Missouri as having produced two separate atrains of literature. The first was the now all-too familiar Wild West tradition-the lilerature (and subliterature) of the High Plains, west of the 100th parallel. The second literature had its locus on the Prairie Plains, a region of hardscrabble farms and raw villages that produced the realism of such writers as Ole Rblvaag, Hamlin Garland and Willa Cather and the revolt against the village of such writers as Sherwood Anderson and Sinclair Lewis, The first strain had a dominant element of high romance and adventure, the second tended to be grim, naturalistic, pessimistic and critical.

Wright Morris, born in Central City, Neb., in 1910, might be placed both geo-graphically and symbolically on the border-line between those two strains—with the further difference that he represents A later generation than the ones Webb re-ferred to. His is the world the settlers made—a tamed world of workaday towns and farms, dusty roads, unpainted barns bleached silver-gray in the sun, rusted harrows parked io scraggly weeds. His prosaic Middle Western imagination fieds home truths in ordinary things and ordinary people; yet it is also a sophisticated, traveled imagination, as the displacedness-even foreigness-of some of the characters who appear in this collection of 13 short stories

Io the best stories, even the Midweatern folk to whom Mr. Morris is closest are displaced to another part of the country; these are no provincial small-town folk rusticating away in slumbrous villages. And those who do have a continuity in a house and town aod on a piece of land, find the outer world impinglog on them— like the Collinses in "Green Grass, Blue Sky, White House." The Story in this story is concealed until the end, when its dénoument is brought out almost casually by the narrator. Mr. Morris works like a medieval miniaturist on a book of hours, filling in the details of the ordinary things of the Collins's house and describing the people there. At the center, io the large white frame house with a runaround porch on an acre of land, is Mrs, Collins, a strong, kindly woman of staunch Quaker background.

Symbiosis Between 2 Families

As a kind of satellite, the DeSpain family lives in the barn out back, poor folk of an exotic racial mixture who migrated to this Missouri town from Louisiaoa, where Mr. DeSpain once worked for Huey Long, We have then a beautifully suggested, indirect portrait of the unusual symbiosis between these two families, and a sense of their ongoing life. Then the narrator intrudes to explain he is visiting them as a lawyer defending the Collins son Floyd, who has been arrested for a rather drastic, but. harmless act of protest against the war. It is all beautifully brought off-the un-commoness of these two families, their busy small world revolving around the verities of green grass, blue sky and white houses and the war, a distant, muted rumbling like heat lightning on the horizon.

Houses are important to Mr. Morris; he. knows their comfortable eccentricities, like the bathroom door in two separate stories that won't stay closed. These bouses hold marriages; also with their comfortable habits, long-enduring, but not necessarily happy. Rather, marriage is like an old shoe become stretched and mishappen to fit the individuals in it, rather than their fitting il. The husbands tend to be a bit Thurberian, married to strong, eccentric, domi-nating wives. The husband io "The Ram

In the Thicket" finds his only solitude in the basement toilet. His wife, a club-woman, small-town intellectual (she recites "ad astra per aspeta" when she wakes up) and bird-watcher referred to her husband and their late son as "they" and the husband thinks they were only truly "they when they happened to meet in the basement. The boy died a hero in the war and the couple is going to attend that day a christening ceremony for the ship named after him. The wife will never let him forget that he got the boy interested in guns and hunting, which, the husband knows, steered him on a course with, given the war, only one possible result.

Mr. Morris's meo are buffaloed by feinaleness; their women are liable to laugh raucously and take up with the lodger, like the wife in "Drrdla," whose coming-out into bawdiness parallels that of the manay cat her obtuse husband coaxes out from the cellar darkness into a life of feline trollopery with the local toms. Two of these men avoid their wives during their periods, like primitive tribesmen, while Einbaum, the displaced Jew, is saved from the Nazis by two widely disparate women. Had these women oot intervened, in their own interests, to be sure, Einbaum would have fecklessly gone to the gas chambers. He is appealingly human because "He has lived, like you, an already long and point-less life." So "Here is Einbaum—through, as we say, no fault of his own."

Visits to Spain and California

Einbaum is the ultra-displaced person in these stories, existing only thanks to others, he represents the farthest horizons of the romantic, High Plains side of Mr. Morris's imagination, Less exotic are the tourist couple in "In Another Country," dazzled by the "sights" of Spain. These "sights"—as opposed to home veritiescan unhinge the perception, the husband finds, after he has wandered off to view a particolarly supernal prospect. How convey this to his wife, or anyone-especially without photographs? His ever-present camera has for once been rendered bliod by beauty.

The same problem afflicts the Kansas couple who, visiting their daughter and son-in-law in California, are taken to a beach where hippies cavort in the nude and publicly fornicate. Their confrontation is handled with delicate satire. The wife, May, sets her lips grimly, eats her picnic and walts impatiently to go home. Cliff, the husband, though, is enthralled by a semi-tame crow'a tricks (while not ignoring the other sights). He keeps talking about it, clinging to it, demanding the others witness it: "What's a few crazy people to one crow in a million?"

Strange beauty, strange people—they are hard for Mr. Morris's homebodies to grasp; more veracious are the ordinary insights into life yielded up in these eccentric houses with Ibeir old-sboe marriages. Or the human beauty of green grass, blue sky, white houses. Or the "one crow in a million." Or Aunt Winona in the title story who, in her old age is a wide-scattered much-divorced family's center and tolem of forgiveness. In her old years, she lies on her couch and watches the people passing in and out of the frame outlined by her front door: "Lying there, my aunt took in only what was passing; she did not see what approached, or how it slipped away." She "passes away" too, to another nephew's and the narralor's deep regret; she stood for something important, while the life seen through ber doorway "all passed away." And through the eyes of an artist such as Wright Morris, and the weathered door frame of his stories, we see what is passlog and nonessential and what are our real losses, as opposed to imaginary gains.

Mr. Ford's Nomination

The most significant aspect of the prospective Presidential nomination of Gerald R. Ford by the Republican National Convention is hardly the selection by his own party of an incumbent President hut rather the extraordinary turmoil through which the party went before it made that ohvious choice.

There have been many dramatic battles over Presidential nominationa in the past; hut never in modern times bas there been anything quite like this: a sitting President, two years in office, being challenged to within an inch of his political life by the opposition inside his own party. It seemed almost impossible that, with all the advantages of incumbeocy and oooe of the disadvantages of personal scandal, this hlandly conservative President could in fact lose the nomination as well as control of hia party and the convention-but this be

And now Mr. Ford's first task is clearly to try to restore and re-establish some semblance of party unity and party esprit. His selection of his running mate today will give a strong indication of the way he intends to do it - if indeed it can be done. Yet it should be possible, if President Ford begins to offer the kind of leadership that looks to the future instead of the past. Despite the schisms within the G.O.P., revealed and exacerbated by tha Eisenhower-Taft contest a quarter-century ago, the Goldwater-Rockefeller split in 1964, and the Ford-Reagan hattle of today, the ideological cleavaga in the Republican Party has. never been so wide as that existing within the modern Democratic Party since the days of Al Smith and F.D.R. In fact, the most striking attribute of the present Democratic Presidential nominee has been his amazing, almost uncanny, ability to gain the support-exceedingly broad if perhaps not terrihly deep-of tha most divergent Democratic groups and factions from left to right.

But President Ford, to have any bope of success, will have to do a good deal more than heal the hreach between the disappointed Reaganites and the loyalists who have successfully stuck it out with him. Mr. Ford is going to have to try to rehuild his dwindling party and recapture the imagination of the many millions of uncommitted voters who have no interest in beating the dead horses of the past, who long for a progressive vision of the future and the leadership to get them there -and who are not as yet necessarily convinced that Jimmy Carter's way is the way they want to go, or even what way that is.

If in his anxiety to appease the extreme right wing of his party-the very zealots whom he has just defeated-Mr. Ford fears to stray too far from their position, be is lost before he atarts. But if somehow he can articulate a positive program of domestic and foreign policy that bears a closer relation to the drastically changed conditions of this country and of the world than he has managed to do thus far, then he may at least have a fighting chance at an election that is not yet decided and is still nearly three months away.

Growing Up Wild

Indiscriminate assaults by rampaging youth gangsa nationwide phenomenon that seems disturbingly on the rise - reached new peaks of lawless insolence last weekend in New York and Detroit.

In this city, roving hands of young people who bad left, or been turned away from, a discotheque contest went on a 41/2-hour spree of robbery, assault and vandalism through a 22-block area of midtown Manhattan. In Detroit, several hundred youths, and some adults, descended on a rock concert terrorizing and scattering the audience. Dozens of persons were assaulted and robbed, at least one woman was raped and another molested.

Similar incidents, increasingly familiar to New Yorkers, have heen reported from cities—and suburbs—across the country this summer. Some have ominous racial overtones, as in the recent invasion of a black family's home in Staten Island by a hand of white youths. But the white residents and merchants of Far Rockaway complained with equal fervor recently of the harassment to which they are being subjected by gangs of youngsters, both black and white.

Detroit's response to its weekend outrage has been to recall 450 laid-off policemen and to clamp a 10 P.M. curfew nn all persons 17 years old and under. Better law enforcement is one answer, wbether through hiring more police, or by gaining more patrol hours from an existing force, as Mayor Beame has been attempting to do. Certainly there is need for more effective use of police already on duty in both Detroit and New York, where the response time to the weekend disturbances was appallingly slow.

Tougher law enforcement alone, however, cannot hegin to answer the basic problem of a generation of Americans growing up wild-without adequate supervision and guidance from families, churches, and the adult community in general, without sufficient discipline in schools, without jobs or recreational outlets for their restless energies, without self-respect or aspirations.

Russell Warren, whose home was the target of the Staten Island incident, underscore part of the problem when he said: "The trouble is, there's no place for the kids to go bere, nothing for them to do. So they hang around and get beer and get into trouble."

Officials in cities plagued by tension and violence point to high unemployment among youth-particularly hlack youth-and cuthacks in funds for johs and recreation. Out of 500,000 disadvantaged young people eligible for the Federal Youth Employment Program here, only 81.500 received johs-and only part-time work at that, lasting for no more than eight weeks.

Unless adult America begins to address seriously, with something more than hilly clubs, the problems of another lost and troubled generation, there is little prospect for a peaceful and law-ahiding society. Violence by wild youth cannot he tolerated; hut to rely on the police as the only antidote is a dangerous delusion.

Seveso Disaster

The north Italian town of Seveso has been the scene of an ecological disaster that sounds the alarm about mankind'a fatally laggard approach to the problems of chemical contamination. Seveso's troubles began early this summer when a chemical plant process went awry. Temperatures and pressures soared, and a valve released a white cloud of amoke.

That white cloud contained, among other compounds, a chemical called dioxin, a highly toxic substance which. even in minute quantities, can produce deformations in human fetuses. No comparable release of dioxin into the general environment had ever occurred, and it took a week before the deaths of animals and plants and the development of skin ailments in children led to full recognition of the disaster. Since then the population has been evacuated, and some pregnant women living in the area have had abortions.

The magnitude of the problem posed by this dioxin contamination is indicated by plans now being drawn up to remove all vegetation and the carth itself to a depth of one foot from the directly affected areas and process them in special incinerators capable of producing temperatures high enough to disintegrate this persistent chemical. Houses in the area nearest to the chemical plant are to be demolished, while structures left standing must be decontaminated.

Hoffman LaRoche, the Swiss pharmaceutical firm which owns the Seveso plant has pledged to pay for the material damage. But serious questions remain how one of the world's most sophisticated chemical enterprises could sanction a process that might result in the escape of so notorious a toxin. Are there chemical plants anywhere else in the world which might cause similar disasters? The lesson of Seveso demands an answer hased on careful consideration of existing risks.

Pickaxe Diplomacy

North Korea's die-hard Stalinist Government bas stooped to a new low in barbarism with the apparently premeditated axe-murder of two American officers at the Panmunjom cease-fire village.

The regime of President Kim II Sung may hope by its hrutal act to build support for recent suggestions in this country for a gradual phase-out of some 40,000 American ground troops still stationed in South Korea. The effect will be exactly the opposite-to strengthen the argument for a continuing strong United States presence in Korea to help preserve the truce in the face of such evidence of persisting aggressiveness from the North. The brutishness engaged in hy Pyongyang could even serve to mute the concern of many Americans who have become increasingly disenchanted with the Government of South Korean President Park Chung Hee, whose despotism is made to appear less onerous hy comparison.

It is also possible that the Panmunjom atrocity was designed to provoke an extreme American retaliationa retaliation that in turn would rally sympathy for the North Koreans at the "nonaligned" conference in Sri Lanka and support for the North Korean Prime Minister's request that the conference demand withdrawal of all United States troops and nuclear weapons from South Korea. Both Washington and the nonaligned nations should surely be trusted to have hetter sense than to fall for such an inhumane and primitive ruse.

Crimes Against Books

Love of books is presumably one of the key attributes of scholars. Unfortunately, students at colleges and universities across the nation are increasingly expressing their love by stealing and vandalizing great numbers of books and periodicals. The annual loss is estimated hy the American Library Association at $250 million. Librarians on campuses across the country talk about an epidemic of "crimes" against their collections.

Both thefts and mutilations derive from a variety of motives, but chief among them would appear to he academic competition-as well as sheer greed, as suggested by a reported massive disappearance of Winslow Homor prints from 19th-century journals. According to The Chronicle of Higher Education, 18 members of the Association of Research Libraries have reported thefts of pages of that artist's work, with 195 taken from the University of Virginia alone.

Perhaps even more depressing is the American Lihrary Association's charge that law and medical students have been among the worst offenders. Both of these professions have sustained painful injury at the hands of unethical practitioners in their present ranks-the law through the lawyers' part in governmental and corporate wrongdoing, and medicine through some greedy doctors' exploitation of government-financed medical prozrams. There has been much talk about a greater emphasis on ethics in training a new generation of young men and women for future service in these fields: but it is difficult to believe that students who, under pressure of collegiate competition, reson to theft as a means of getting ahead of their classmates will resist the temptation of lawless or unfair practices in real-life

In policing the libraries, an offender's area of study is, of course, irrelevant. Theft and mutilation of hooks by any scholar is an offense that should count far more sempusly than any academic snortcomings against the student's record.

Letters to the Editor

Turkey on the Aegean Problem

To the Editor:

It is rather discouraging that Greek spokesmen and officials almost always resort to demagogy in disputes which divide our countries, in an obvious attempt to mislead tha world public opinion. Alexis Phylactopoulos' Aug. 16 letter is a case in point.

The crux of the Aegean problem between Turkey and Greece is not that we deny continental shelf rights to Greece, but rather that Greece would deny any rights to Turkey over the very continental shelf which nature has given her. Using the existence of Greek islands which are actually situated on top of the natural prolongation of the Anatolian land mass as a pretext, Greece unabashedly claims the whole Aegean for berself. Obviously there is neither justice nor equity in trying to claim exclusively the entire aea, seabed and airspace of the Aegean with all its resources, for only some 300,000 Greeks living on the islands while denying the same to oearly ten million Turks living in the Aegean region of Turkey.

The activities of the Turkish survey vessel Simik I, are confined to outside the territorial waters of Greece. These activities were oever intended as an attempt to prejudge the issue. Frankly, Turkey is now collecting the data on the Aegean continental shelf, which Greece already collected some time ago.

To Curb Air Terror

To the Editor: How can terrorists hoard an Alitalia plane carrying machine guns, pistols and grenades? If airport security at Rome ia as bad as indicated in Ankara dispatches, the United States should demand immediate rectification, in the absence of which we should suspend all service hy our carriers to Italy, and deny landing rights here to Alitalia. I would suggest a one-week deadline, in order to give travelers an opportunity to adjust their plans. We should ask other nations to join us in this action, but should not wait for them to agree. And we should apply the same treatment to other countries which may be similarly lax.

The inexcusable murder of an Amerlçan citizeo in Ankara makes it clear that we have an urgent national interest. While the international aviation community may be shaken by forthright action, a clear and effective stand would be understood and approved by most elements of world public opinion, particularly potential air passengers from all nations. Socialism for Whom?

To the Editor: to provide coverage for the manufacturers of swine flu vaccine without a guarantee by Congress that our tax funds will be used to underwrite that coverage. The insurance industry has refused when it is proposed that tax funds he used to provide our people with a national health insurance program or 10 reduce unemployment or to make welfare aid a Federal responsibility. At the same time they do not hesitate to accept our tax dollars when those dollars benefit them alone.

In fact, when Congress drags its feet and the dollars are slow in coming;

These data would be useful in bilateral negotiations on the dispute. Turkey is not intransigent in tha dispute: sbe is convinced however, that the dispute can only be resolved through high level; meaningful political negotiations. Turkey has even advocated joint exploration and exploitation of the resources of the Aegean for the benefit of the two peoples.

Greece has so far refused such peaceful suggestions. One clue for the motive for this intransigence and for tha recent sword waving attitude of Greece lies in C. L. Sulzberger's recent column from Athens: Apparently Mr. Caramanlis is under pressure from hawks and extremists in the Greek army and parliament to react strongly to every Turkish move in the Aegean, however innocent and justified. As Mr. Sulzberger points out Mr. Caramanlis' political survival depends on "how atrong" he appears to be in the Aegean dispute. Obviously Turkey can neither forego her vital interests in order to accommodate the aurvival requirements of Mr. Caramanlis, nor should world opinion ask such a sacrifice from Turkey.

Traffic Injuries

To the Editor: It is gratifying that legislatures are once again taking interest in traffic injuries and fatalitles. As usual, the approach is to add more complications and regulations to those already in existence.

As a plastic surgeon, I treat many of the tragic injuries which result from motor vehicle collisions. This experieoce has led me to four basic conclusions:

1. Very few of those with severe injuries wore seat belts at the time of the collision.

2. The smaller the vehicle the more serious the injuries.

3. Motorcycles, giving the least protection, causa the severest damage to the human body. 4. About half the accidents I see idd" or by one's

The insurance industry has refused are related to excessive use of alcohol -as confirmed by the "nose test" (my nose).

It is unfashionable to say, but true, that the larger the vehicle, the smaller the proportion of fatalities and the less severe the injuries.

The conclusions are obvious. Seat belts are available: their use should be encouraged or required. We should go back to advocating the use of large vehicles, if only for protection of the occupants. Motorcycles should not he allowed on public highways. Legislation against drunken driving is urgently ROBERT A. FISCHL, M.D.

On the Problems at West Point

Recent publicity is only now beginning to breach the real problems at West Point. One problem is that the Academy is run under the principle of total repression. Policies are generated under the pretext of instilling discipline, yet their actual effects can be measured by viewing hundreds of frustrated cadets having little or no contact with the world with which their non-military peers are involved. The repressive atmosphere thus created inspires cadets not to learn self-discipline, but to perfect their skills of deviation. Honor and regulations are so closely interwoven that the difference between the two is often indistinguishable.

The concepts of honor, integrity, and morality are personal issues that everyone faces at some time, and for West Point to define, standardize, and rigidly impose these values on idealisuc young men is but another repressive altempt to mold and control the developing personality of each cadet. Because of the pettiness of the maiority of the regulations, most cadets violating them do so believing they are doing nothing wrong. As Ellis and Moore so accurately state in "School for Soldiers," "The Absence of guilt and the parallel conviction that the punishment was uodeserved combined to sanction violations of the Honor Code (particularly lying) as a means to avoid getting caught." Once the code is hroken subsequent violatioos become easier. Add to these forces the obvious disregard for honor, integrity, and morality in the military, and society, and large cheating rings (yes, they do exist) become less scaodalous than human in nature, which leads me to pose the following questions:

1. Why has West Point not made the academic system less conducive to cheating?

2. Why have these problems been moralistically denied by academy officials for so many years? 3. Is West Point, in its present form, nceded by today's society? The use of historical traditions and precedents as rationale for outdated policies makes clear West Point is run retrogressively. Owing to West Point's ability and desire to remain unchanged, meaoingful reforms have not and will not occur except as imposed from outside the military segment of our society.

I write these words as a concerned citizen, officer and graduate. (First Lieut.) CHARLES DANA BICKFORD

A 'Quiet, Undramatic' Leader

By Roger W. Hooker Jr.

WASHINGTON-None of us committed to civil rights in this country could have failed to be deeply moved by the visioo of Dr. Martin Luther King Sr. delivering his benediction at the Democratic National Convention with George Wallace flanking him on the platform in Madison Square Garden. Even many of us at home found ourselves spontaneously singing along with the thousands of delegates on the floor "We Shall Overcome." And to the extent that we haven't already, we shall overcome.

The question, of course, is what is the best way to do so. Jimmy Carter offered us, along with much more, jobs for every person abte to work. comprehensive netional bcalth tosurance, an end to inflation and a balanced budget.

Alt are taudable goals—but given the fact that, to take one exampla, health-care expenditures are increasing at an atarming rate and already account for some 8.5 percent of the gross national product (compared with 4.5 percent in 1953), this program promise atone precludes balancing the budget, much less managing inflation. in the foresecable future.

Nevertheless, given the painful reatity that eight cents out of every dotlar of Federal expenditures today are devoted to servicing debt for Government programs previousty undertaken, the fact that Mr. Carter emphasized a balanced budget- albeit among a host of mutually exclusive objectives -is encouraging.

Inflation, the cruelest tax on the poor, the aged and the jobless io this country, was runniog et a double-digit pace when President Ford took office in 1974. The fact that it is now within tolerable limits is a remarkable achievement and a tribute to the leadership Mr. Ford has exerted by his unprecedented use of the veto controlling the uncoordinated excesses of the Democratically controlled Congress as well as by his foreign policy that has helped reduce cost-push inflationary pressures in the energy and agriculture sectors.

It is this kind of leadership-quiet, undramatic and diplomatic-that permitted the unity of this nation to exhibit Itself with such grace and exuberance over the Fourth of July, and even created the climate in which an apparently unified Democratic convention could focus on our nobtest instincts in New York City! .

Another event that occurred in New York deserves particular ootice because, unchallenged, it will come up again and again during the campaign: the demagogic reference by Senator Walter F. Mondale (who knows better) to Presideot Ford's pardon of Richard M. Nixon and the resulting protracted ovation It received.

There can be no doubt that the Nixon White House indulged lo perhaps the most shameful-or shameless history. At the time of the pardoo I suspect I was by no means alone in feeliog outraged, but also, and more ignobly, somehow personally cheated and frustrated that I could not witness, if not participate in, a public hanging sanctioned by the kind of moral indignation that sustains

After the Ball

By William Safire

KANSAS CITY, Mo -After the test vote had doomed the Reagan candidacy, an eide peered out the window of the trailer at the crowd of waiting newsmen and wondered ruefully what to tell them.

Douglass style, stressing detailed undernot tose his equanimity in adversity. "We go out there and tell them," he said mock-bravely, "that the Ford forces have just fallen into our trap."

Of course, President Ford clinched his nomination by carefully avoiding the Reagan foreign-policy trap. By accepting a platform amendment that unmistakably repudieted the Kissioger foreign policy. Mr. Ford gave the Reaganites their pound of flesh. (By not responding with his resignation, Mr. Kissinger demonstrates that no rebuke is humiliating enough to induce him to release the President from his grasp.)

Conservatives and other Reaganites have no cause for complaint or reason for bitterness. President Ford won his nomination fairly and squarely, and earned the right to expect his opponents at this contested convention to guip a coupte of times and then to support his candidacy with enthusiasm.

So (gulp, gulp) hats off to Harry Dent, who turned the key on the Reagan tock of the Southern delegates, as James Naughton of The New York Times was the first to perceive. There is justice in Mr. Dent's comeback: Only a year ago, he was forced to plead guitty to a minor fund-raising misdemeanor by a special prosecutor who was not nearly so relentless with a dozen Democratic operatives. Harry Dent was unfairly tainted, and only a President's need could end his pariah status.

That Ford need for campaign professionalism brought Dean Burch and Bryce Hartow, close to the center again, and recruited young Old Pros like William Timmoos, Tom Korologis and television adviser William Carruthers. Absent the Reagan challenge, the Ford campaign would still be directed by the hacks who could oot get anything together this spring.

How can the President take advantage of this week's momeotum to open up the possibility of an upset victory in 70 days? A seven-point program:

1. He should cut down his acceptance speech, which now runs 30 minutes without applause, by one third. He could double his impact by getting a simple, clear message across to the television sudience rather than longwindedly preaching to the choir in the

He should make some news that surprise in November.

would shake up the Odds-makers and potisters. His challenge to debate should be neither coy, delayed, nor tclevision-aged: He should announce bis availability to debate Mr. Carter for three hours every Friday, Lincoln-Ed Meese, a top Reagan adviser, did standing of issues, and avoiding the antiseptic panel shows that favor the quickly briefed.

3. He should forget the defensive. Mr. Carter will ruo against Mr. Nixon, and the President cannot go around pouting about the unfairness of this. The voters will understand soon enough that Mr. Carter, the cool and ruthless loner, is far ctoser in character to Mr. Nixon than Mr. Ford ever has been.

4. He should remember that many people vote their fears. Fear of the unknown is a basic human emotion, and Mr. Carter is the unknown. John Connally touched that nerve the other night in the most effective passage of oratory in the convention. The mystery of Mr. Carter's fuzziness is more attackable than the assumption that he's just another big spender.

5. He should address himself to that sizable group who vote their hopes more than their fears. Mr. Ford is not very good at promising, which is usualty catted "articulating his vision of America," because promising is most often associated with spending. But the conservative promise is more freedom-contrasting with the liberal requirement of more government restriction on freedom-an appeal that Mr.

ESSAY

Ford should try to get the bang of expressing.

6. He should identify his villain as the do-anything Democratic Coogress and bammer away at the theme that only be-and not Mr. Carter-can restrain a Democratic Coogress from a spree of spending that will drive up prices and taxes.

7. He should exploit his opponent's mistakes. When Mr. Carter inadvertently blasts George Bush and bas to apologize, or gets caught buying off black ministers and has to say, "I've issued strict orders"-whatever that means-he gets away with a one-day story. Those are not only examples of viciousness or venality down the line. but of inefficient Carter administration at the top. The President bas to pick up those fumbles and run with

A Fable For Now:

The wolf who cried "boy!"

In the magical land of Glut, all the animals shared the Wondrous Waterhole, which was presided over by a wilv wolf. The wolf, by and large, tried hard to do a good job of protecting the smaller animals from being trodden on by larger ones, and in overseeing the general welfare of all concerned. He was especially proud of his water management program, which, of course, meant maintaining the purity of the Wondrous Waterhole.

The waterhole was, indeed, wondrous. It provided water and recreational facilities for all the animals. The waterhole also was a potential source of gogo syrup, a magical substance which the animals. large and small, depended on for their energy.

However, it was only a potential source, since the syrup was located deep in the earth beneath the waterhole, and the wily wolf never allowed anybody to try to burrow for it. "Oh boy!" he would exclaire. "Oh boy! You can't do that! Ohboyohboyohboy! Absolutely not! Do you want to turn the Wondrous Waterhole into a messy gogo glob?" And so, heeding his alarmism, the animals of Glut continued to bring in their gogo syrup from neighboring lands and even from kingdoms far

One day, the head of the Eager Beaver Gogo Getters paid a call on the wolf. "Frankly, wolf, I'm busy as a-well, as a beaver," he said, "but I thought maybe a personal call would convince you that we animals are perfectly capable of extracting our own gogo syrup without damaging our Wondrous Waterhole." "After all," the beaver noted, "the techniques of extracting . gogo are well known, and safe."

"Oh boy!" The wolf cried, "Ohbovohboyohboy! You can't do that! Absolutely not! Ohboyohboy-

This time, the wolf had cried, "boy" once too often. When the gogo-producing nations of the world heard of the wolf's continued recalcitrance, they began to question why they should ship their precious supplies of gogo to Glut.

"We've got little enough as it is," they said. "He's got his own waterhole, hut he's afraid to dig under it," they said.

So, they began raising their prices for gogo, threatened to cut off shipments, and even did so on

With supplies of gogo now uncertain, the animals of Glut began losing their energy for the myriad tasks that kept the forest humming. Birds stopped singing. Bees stopped making honey. Moles stopped burrowing. And, after a time, the animals began drifting off, a few at a time, then more and more, to find homes in more realistic lands. Eventually, the wolf was the only one left. Looking around, the lone wolf sighed, "oh

But nobody was there to listen.

Which brings to mind the ongoing controversy over the development of America's offshore oil and gas. What seems to have been overlooked is that offshore drilling is a well-developed technology which already offers substantial environmental protection. Though more than 20,000 wells have been drilled in the past quarter century in the Gulf of Mexico and off. the Pacific coast, there have been only four serious: spills. All of these were quickly cleaned up with no evidence of lasting ecological damage. Meanwhile, as the issue is dehated and redebated, U.S. dependence on foreign oil grows, and grows. And that's

Goldin, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt from the special state comptroller, Sidney Schwartz, and from the offices of other hranches of the state and Federal Governments, the audits spew forth, pointing with alarm to a backlog of overdue water charges here, overlooked misappropriations there and other deficiencies that lead the average person to leel that government is the mess he or she had always suspected. Focus oo Fiscal Efficiency

The audits are perhaps the most publicly visible aspect of e new era of city government, a time when austerity has raised everyone's awareness of things financial, and the eagerness of everyone in government to be the one pointing the way toward ef-audits," said Donald D. Kummerfield, the city's Budget Director. "Many of them put pressure on us in just the right way. But the audits are forcing us to spend too much time explaining unimportant things, things we already know about. There have been weeks when half the time of my staff is spent trying to respond to the outdated charges in these audits.' Some numbers tell the story of why Mr. Kummerfeld is exasperated. Comp-troller Levitt has a staff of 100 people to audit the operations of New York City alone. Comptroller Goldin has a staff of about 125, Mr. Schwartz has another 50, in addition to the 15 professionals of the Emergency Financial Cootrol Board, the

Republican Convention

Gerald R. Ford, in an ebullient mood, was proposed to the Republican National Convention by Gov. William E. Milliken of Michigan as "the present and future Presideot." The final delegate tabulation by The New York Times before the roll-call raised his margin over Ronald Reagao to 49 votes, with 12 diehards remaining uncommitted. Mr. Ford kept his choice of a running mate secret, scheduling an evening meeting with Mr. Reagan to discuss the subject. There was no sign that their hard-fought contest would leave a legacy of bitterness. Mr. Reagan declined to accept the offer of Senator Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania to withdraw from his slate. [Page 1, Cols. 1-8.]

John P. Sears, who managed Ronald Reagan's national campagn, said e few hours before the final vote that very small itemsmistakes, misunderstandings, misinterpretations-had brought the nine-month campaign to the point where victory seemed beyond reach. The final unexpected twist, he said, was the Mississippi delegation's vote not to support Mr. Reagan's crucial floor fight for a rules change concerning the Vice-Presidential selection. [1:6-7.]

Some of President Ford's closest advisers are urging a strategy of provocation against Jimmy Carter io the Presidential race and say they will "wipe that smile off hia face." Their essumption is that the Democratic nominee is vague, aelf-righteous and shorttempered, and that sharp attacks on his integrity and credibility can rattle him. These advisers would out former Gov. John B. Connally of Texas in charge of the Republican campaign, citing his mastery of political ridicule and sarcasm. [1:5.]

International North Korean soldiers wielding axes and metal pikes attacked a group of American and South Korean soldiers in the demilitarized zone, killing two American officers and wounding four American enlisted meo and five South Korean soldiers. The United Nations Command Said the soldiers had routinely been trimming branches from a tree at the Panmunjom truce site near the south eod of the bridge used for prisoner exchange after the Korean war. In Kansas City, President Ford condemned the attack and said the North Korean Government would be responsible for the "consequences."

The North Korean radio said American troops had attacked North Korean soldiers protesting the tree-trimming. [1:1.1 Faced with a United Nations ultimatum expiring at the eod of the month, a coostitutional committee in South-West Africa announced plans for a multiracial government to lead the territory to independence from South Africa by Dec. 31, 1978. The statement issued in Windhoek, the territorial capital, did not meotioo the South-West Africa People's Organization, which the United Nations recognizes as representative of its people but which did not take part in the discussions. Nor was there any reference to elections, called for in the ultimatum. [1:4.]

Survivors of the Mindanao earthquake and tidal wave told of being swept out to sea and back in the disaster that lcft 3,103 io the Philippioes dead and 2,282 missing. The National Disaster Coordinating Center said the death toll might reach 5,000. [1:2.]

Processors of Fish Ordered to Follow Federal Regulations

A Federal judge in Brooklyn ruled yesterday that processors of smoked whitefish had to meet Government heating and brining regulations despite industry contentions that this would lead to a dry, tasteless product.

Nova Scotia Food Products of Brooklyn, defendant in the Government action, and the National Fisheries Institute which intervened in the concern's behalf-asserted during a weck-long trial that many companies would have to go out of business if they had to produce unmarketable smoked

But Judge John F. Dooling Jr. contended in his ruling in ederal District Court that the Government regulations could be met without sacrificing taste electric ovens and new humidifying techniques were employed by the amoked-fish processors.

Because of an increase of botulism cases in the 1960's the Government in 1970 oromulgated new regulations known officially as the Current Good Manufacturing Practice, which require oven of whitefish at 180 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes if the salt content of the fish is 3.5 percent, or at 150 degrees for 30 minutes if the salinity is 5 percent, to produce smoked

In July 1975, and again in February 1976, Food and Drug Administration inspectors visited the Nova Scotia Food Products plant at 7 Lombardi Street in Brooklyn and found that the company was not processing the smoked whitefish in accordance with new regulations. During the trial hefore Judge Dooling. Nova Scotia did not deny the charge. But it contended it could not produce a smoked product that would be lasteful and salable under the

At the same time, Mr. Ochs offered a prize of $100 to anyone who could come up with a better slogan of 10 words or less.

Thousands of Times readers submitted slogans like "All the News That's Fit to Read," "All the News Worth Telling," "Free From Filth, Full of News," "News for the Million, Scandal for None."

The prize winner, selected by Richard Watson Gilder, editor of Century Magazine, was "All the World News, but Not a School for Scandal." It was submitted by D. M. Redfield of New Haven, Conn.

When the contest was over, however, the original "All the News That's Fit to Print" seemed more appropriate than ever. On February 10, 1897, it was placed on the first page of The NewYork Times in the same spot it occupies

The world has changed since 1897. So has The New York Times. But the policy behind the slogan is still the same. Day in, day out "All the News That's Fit to Print" helps you keep up with a modern, changing world.

Role in Transit Services

The LC.C.'s decision, which came late Tuesday on a case iovolving Conrail lines between Hoboken, N.J., and Orange and Rockland Counties. was based on a provision of the newly enacted Rail Revitalization Act that the commission said exempts from its cootrol "all mass transportation services provided ... pursuant to a contract with a local public body."

Why the interest in polo, a game usually associated with royalty and the rich, and one that is still estimated to cost at least $10,000 a year to play? (The major part of the cost is taken up hy stabling and feeding a horse and club membership.)

"No one can explain it, but once you hit that little white ball, there's something magic about it," said Terence Preece, an S-goal player and interested observer who, until this year was also the instructor at the annual

2 Designers Have a Way With Wood

By LISA HAMMEL

Wendell Castle and Rinaldo Fratolillo have in common a great respect for wood and an Impressive ability to work it. Both make furniture that invites touching and offers detailing rarely found in a cabinetmaker's manual.

The one-of-a-kind work of both men is being shown at Beylerian, Ltd., a decorator and wholesale showroom at 305 East 63d Street.

Beyond their technique, however, is the flair and sense of design. Mr. Fratolillo's rounded corners, stacked surfaces and use of glass, lacquer and exotic woods are strongly suggestive of the balanced asymmetry and force of line of the Art Deco period.

The work of Mr. Castle, whose name is a byword among American wood craftsmen, is, in its whlplash undulations, reminiscent of the wild, romantically curving shapes of Art

Some Swooping Curves

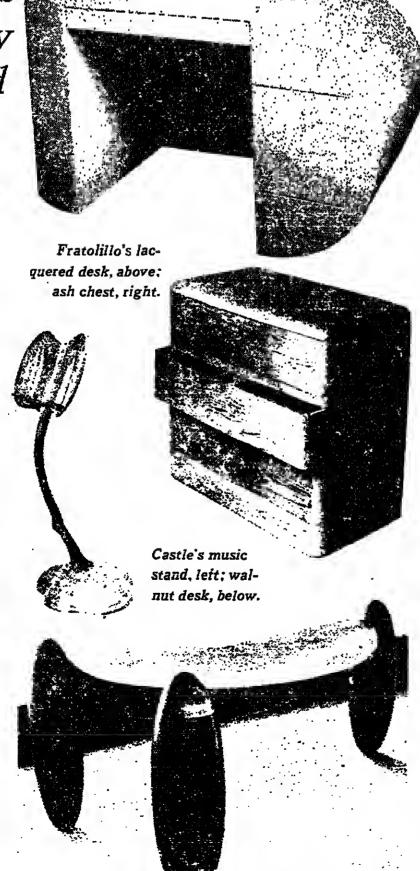

But Mr. Castle's swooping curves, which have become a trademark, are seen in only some of the pieces there -a large, free-form walnut desk with three startling supports that look rather like double-ended bullets: a game table surrounded by cantilevered chairs that are shaped in a continuous curve, and one of his music siands. for the rest, he has settled into rounded lines, as io a pale maple table that rotates on a base shaped like thread spool. The little stools that accompany it are simply spools, like something out of a giant's sew-

The seven pieces by Mr. Fratolillo, who is a sculptor, painter and furniture designer, consist of tables, a desk and a chest.

The asymmetrical desk, in brilliant yellow lacquer, looks like a slice of the moon; the black lacquer telcphone table (although it would be a shame to waste it on a telephone; is a study in balanced curves. A dramatic coffee table in zebra wood offers two off-center shelves emerging from a pedestal. A striking console in cherry also has a pair of glass

Prices for these handmade pieces are steep, and none have yet been sold. The designs by Mr. Fratolillo. which can be custom reproduced, range from $1,400 for the two-tiered. glass-shelfed colfee table in zebra wood to $4,000 for a snlid ash chest of drawers. Prices for Mr. Castle's pieces go from $900 for a cherry-wood plant stand to $9,000 for a walnut game table with four chairs.

Their goals, Dr. Joanne Steiger, president of the consulting firm of Sticger, Fink & Smith points out, were often lofty ones: more executive jobs, better opportunities in academe, desegregation of public accommodations. But left behind were the great mass of women, most without raised consciousness or skills, onequarter of whom are employed as secretaries, retail sales clerks, bookkeepers, elementary schoolteachers or waitresses.

"NOW, WEAL [the Women's Equity Action Lcague] and the education lobhying groups have not taken on their cause," said Mary Jolly, director of public affairs of the American Home Economics Association. "This is a hig amorphous group that is not helped by anybody."
Emer the Congress, which is currently considering amendments to the Vocational Education Act. these amendments pass, they would help reduce sex bias programs throughout the country.

More Technical Jobs What is at stake in this pending legislation is not putting women in the executive suite, but getting them into technical jobs that afford them more mobility in jub choices, a greater chance of being in business for themselves and better-paying jobs: the telephone installer in New York City can earn $339 a week; the operators, who until recently were all women, earn a maximum of

The bills are designed to combat practices that sicreo-type women—who make up almost half the work force -in training programs. Only 8 percent of women enrolled in vocational education courses are in programs that prepare them for traditionally male high-paying jobs, a Federal study found.

A consequence of this practice of exclusion is that women who have always worked earn only threequarters of what men carn. The vocational education amendments were approved by the Himse of Representatives earlier this year. A Senate version, sponsored by Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, the Democrat Vice Presidential candidate, is still to be considered on the floor. Bul the basic common de-following the legislation closely.

The strongest feature in the Senate bill is the $100,000 earmarked for each state to set up an office for women in the state vocational edu-cation department. Considering the starting fee of $4,000 and the speed shown by the top two horses in the Adios, some of the experts had predicted the field for the Cane might be even skimpier than it turned out to be. Armbro Ranger, last year's champion 2-year-old pacer, apparently has regained the sharpness that carried him to 14 victories in 21 starts during 1975. And Keystone Ore has been just as impressive. A few weeks ago, at Saratoga Raceway, be set a world record of 1:56

2/5 for a half-mile track. The stake record for the cane, a race heing contested for the 22d time, is 1:58 3/5. The track record for a one-mile race is 1:56 4/5. Rounding out the pacing triple crown are the Little Brown by at Delayers. Brown Jug. at Delaware, Ohio, on Sept. 23, and the Messenger Stake at Roose-velt Raceway on Oct. 30.

Before his appearance with Keystone Ore in Saturday night's Cane Pace, Stanley Dancer will drive Zoot Suit in the $147,000 Empire State Trot at the New York State Fairgrounds. In yesterday's draw, Zoot Suit received the No. 1 post position for the Saturday afternoon race.

Fourteen horses have been entered for the race at the Syracuse Mile, with a twotier start scheduled. There will be eight in the front row, six in the second tier.

Golden Gate a Hanson Show

By WALTER R. FLETCHER "We have one of the few shows in America that still is benched, and as long as I'm show chairman I intend to keep it that way," said Stanley Hanson of the Golden Gate Kennel Club. "We like to think of Goldof of en Gate as a encourage people to come and spend the day in the Cow Palace. As a result, we have crowds from 25,000 to 30,000 over the two days for our winter show." Hanson and Golden Gate are synonomous for Hanson

Kennel Club delegate.

Hanson started with dachs-

Hanson was impressed with the Colorado Centennial Canina Circuit, where he judged in June. Six shows were held in Denver's Hall of Education, with entries ranging from 3,133 to 3,585.

"I arrived with mixed emo-tions," he said, "but found the hall clean, the rings large and a huge grooming area. The place was as clean for the sixth show, as for the first. I'd like to see a similar circuit put on in different parts of the country, from time to time. There were people from almost every state, including Alaska and Hawail. They had an opportunity to meet, exchange ideas and see great dogs. Ordinarily that's not possible."

their opponents, the Yankees redressed a 5-0 deficit against the Texas Rangers last night at Yankee Stadium,

The Yankes won, 8-6, on Roy White's second home run of the game, a two-run blast io the ninth. Ken Holtzman, the New York starter, succumbed 10 a oarrage of Texas hits in the inning and one-third he ap-peared, turning over a 5-0 disadvantage to Dick Tidrow and Sparky Lyle, who suc-ceeded him.

The Yankees came back with a run in the third and five more in the fifth against succession of Ranger pitchers.

It was the last meeting of 1976 between the teams. The Yankees had won eight of the previous 11. New York has also completed its season's work with Chicago and Kansas City. Though there is Holtzman, making his 13th start, was exploited early and often by the Rangers. Gene. Clines, the leadoff batter, looped a drive down the right-field line. The ball got by Lou Piniella and rattled around in the corner while Clines sped to third.

The first Texas run scored Harrah singled to right. Harrah crossed the plate on Mike Hargrove's double between Roy White and Mickey Rivers in the outfield.

There was a derisive cheer from the crowd when Holtzman got two strikes on Jeff Burroughs, the fourth batter in the inning, and an ovation without derision when he struck out the hitter on a change-up. Holtzman also got Jim Fregosi, the designated hitter, on Holtzman, already behind, 3-0, compounded his difficulties in the second. He walked Danny Thompson, theleadoff batter, who reached second on an infield out and third on Clines's single through the shortstop hole.

Harrah tapped to Chris Chambliss in front of first base and Chamoliss, reacting late, threw home Thompson-bowled over Thurman Munson to score and Harrah was safe at first. Hargrove made it S-0 with a single over first base and that was all for Holtzman. Tidrow got the last two outs without difficulty.

the only impression the Yankees could make on Jim Um- » barger, the Texas starter, was White's 11th homer of the season, a high fly just into the stands down the leftfield line.

Billie Jean's first serves were deep, her approach volleys decisive. The loss of 10 pounds since the start of the W.T.T. season appeared to help on her ground strokes the most, as she dug out Evonne's best cross-court sbots on the slow synthetic carpet.

But the one quality that has always distinguished Mrs. King from rivals bas been her ability to think through situations and anticipate tactics.

There she was again, poised at break point on Evonne's serve, with games at 4-all. After Miss Goolagong faulted her first serve, Billie Jean wisely took the offensive and attacked a short second serve with a forehand deep into the corner, Miss Goolagong, who had routed Virginia Wade, 6-2, last night in Pittsburgh, answered with a short lob, but Mrs. King's indomitable overhead was an easy win-ner. He said he was coming home, but I told him to stay because he'd worked four years for this chance. We're strong at home, we can make it, I told him. Your mother wanted you to win the gold medal. For about five minutes there was no noise on the phone, only silence. Then Howard said: 'John, I'll stay and win the gold medal for Mama.'

"I flew to Montreal and we talked and shed some tears. He won all five fights, two by knockouts. I don't know how he managed. Maybe he broke down when he was alone. Tom Johnson used to get the team together every day to get on their knees and pray. Black fighters tend to be religious, so Tom was never afraid the kids would tune

"Howard is very reserved, an introvert. You'd never know he was a boxer. He says he dedicated the Olympics to his mother. You can't get him to wear the gold medal. He just keeps it home."

The 41-year-old ophthalmologist, known as Dr. Richard Raskind until aurgery was performed last year, also reaffirmed her intention to refuse to take the sexdetermining chromosome test the United States Tennis Association will impose on all female entrants at Forest Hills this year.

Dr. Richards, at a news conference at the John Weyne Tennis Club, where she is a member and a ranking player, explained that she could have returned to anonymity even after all the publicity, and bad been urged to do so by ber sister and father, both physicians.

"But I chose not to turn back," she said, "because I started getting really incred-ible letters from other transsexuals. I realized this was more than just a tennis question. A transsexual is not somebody with two heads or who minces down a sidewalk. So I have become a spokeswoman for these people. am in a position, because am a reputable physician and not a freak, to show that transsexuals are people who can hold their heads up high."

Then she elaborated on her stand on the chromosome

'The so-called chromosome test is a poor laboratory choice," she said. "There are many verieties of chromosome patterns, and the test i snot always a simple xx feamle or xy male resuit. One in every 4,000 bas abnormal sex chromosomes. There are xo's, xxy's xyy's, single x's, and a whole mosaic of possi-bilities. There are probably people in this room other than myself who might fail the so-called sex test for their sex on any given day. I don't know how I would do on the test. I don't want

The soft husky voice is mostly male, but the high checkbones, shapely legs, graceful gold pierced earrings and peach nail polish to match her peach Kochini sweater are distinctly female. She also gave her age as 10 years younger when she applied for membership in the club.

The question of taking the chromosome test mey very well be moot for Dr. Rich-ards. Only 184 women are accepted into the mein draw or the qualifying round at Forest Hills, Over 300 women bave requested entry, and Dr. Richards's tournament history is weak.

"One tournament is not a very loog record," said a U.S.T.A. official. Dr. Richards admits she some plays, too." Carson made his plays last year as a defensive lineman at South Carolina State-114 solo tackles, 41 assiste and 30 quarterback sacks. But when N.F.L. scouts looked at the 6-foot-2-inch, 225-pound player with 4.6-second speed for 40 yards, they agreed that linebacker was the spot for him in the pros. "When Ed Rutledge [Giant cial teams] went down to his campus last year," said Arnsparger, "he told him to just do the things he'd been doing for the other pro scouts, and be started backpedaling." It's a direction Carsoo has had some trouble going be-cause his instinct is still to rush the quarterback, not drop back and protect against the pass. "I'm still tempted to rush," he said, and a lot of times when I'm fooled on a play-action pass and get out of position, I go ahead and rush anyway." Middle linebacker is per-haps the key position of dense and Arnsparger knows it often takes a player a while to learn how to play "There are some who can play it right from the begin-ning," the coach said, "and others who can never play it. Carson is much closer to the former."

In fact, Carson has been learning his new position so quickly that, along with Troy Archer at defensive and, Gordon Bell at running back and Dan Lloyd, another linebecker, on the special teams. he will be counted oo to help the Giants this season.

Carson, who has added some weight and mow is 240, wasn't drafted until the fourth round, a slight he said occurred only "because I was drafted out of position."

Protest on South Africa Stepped Up

The protest against the participation of South Africa and Rhodesia in the Federation Cup tennis tournament went to the United Nations yesterday. The protestors, or-garized by the South African Non-Racial Olympic Committee, met with the U.N.'s Committee Against Apartheid. The focus of the protest is the Federation Cup, the women's equivalent of the Davis Cup, which begins Sunday in Philadelphia. Among the nations in the 32-team draw are South Africa and Rhodesia.

The U.N. committee has written a letter to the Federation Cup organizers in Philadelphia protesting the participation of the two African countries. The protestors have sent a letter to many of the participating countries (including the United States, the Soviet Union, Australia and Rumania) asking that they withdraw if South Africa and Rhodesia slay in the tournament.

The protest will move to Philadelphia today where a meeting is scheduled with the Federation Cup sponsors.

N.F.L. Clubs Debate Player Limit

The owners and chief executive officers of the National Football League's 28 teams failed yesterday to reach an agreement on the number of players each club will be allowed to retain for the coming season. The meeting will resume today at N.F.L. headquarters, 410 Park Avenue.

The player limit last year was 43 and the year before 47. A total of 21 affirmative votes is required to reach an agreement. If there is none, the player hmit will revert to 36, the oumber agreed upon in 1962 and incorporated into the league bylaws. It has been amended every year since.

U.S. Rifle Team Regains Title

CAMP PERRY, Obio, Aug. 18 (UPI) — The United States team trounced its international competition today to regain the Palma Trophy rifle team match title. The United States last won the Palma in 1973 but lost it to South Africa in 1974, the last time the match was fired.

The Palma course of fire is 15 shots for each of the 20 team members from 800, and 1,000 yards. The United States took an early lead at the S00-yard line and continued to expand on it from the 900- and 1,000-yard lines. The final score for the Americans was 8,658 of a possible 9,000 points. South Africa fired an aggregate score of 8,497, and Britain finished third with 8,465. New Zealand. Australia and Canada were next, in that order.

Rooald G. Troyer, Camp Verde, Ariz., fired the high individual score of 445 of a possible 450. He had a perfect score from the 800-yard line.

South Africa Relaxes Rugby Curb

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 18 (Reuters)-South Africa moved further today toward relaxing its once-rigid apartheid laws in sports following increased isolation and rejection by international athletics bodies. Sports Minister Piet Koornhof announced last night that racially mixed rugby teams now could tour abroad with official sanction from the Government.

In his speech at a rugby dinner. Koornbof made it clear that racially mixed teams would not be regarded as full South African clubs but as invitation teams. He said the Government made the decision following a request by the South African Rugby Board. Danie Craven, president of the board, said today that South Africa would accept an invitation to send a racially mixed team to France in 1979.

Dance: Ailey Swings Into the Classics

After Ellington Week, Earlier Works Added

By CLIVE BARNES

To an extent it was business as usual for the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater on Tuesday night. It was opening the seound and final week of its Lincoln Center season, which has been called "Ailey Celebrates Ellington."
During the first week week had nothing but works with music by Duke Ellington. However, the repertory is becoming slightly more catholic, during this second week and Ailey Company repertory are being included.

Eveo bere we bad a repeat of Talley Beatty's "The Road of the Phoebe Snow," elo-quently led by Beth Shorter, Michihiko Oka, Donna Wood, Woodin. But the rest-apart from the now traditional medley of Duke Ellington Standards played by the Duke Ellington Orchestra zestfully condocted by Mercer Ellington, the composer's son - was non-Ellington. It consisted of three Ailey works "Streams:" his solo for Judith Jamison, "Cry" and Mr. Alley's fundamental-ist classic, "Revelations."

"Streams" with its music by the Czech composer Milosiav Kabelac, oow seems somewhat tenuous in its kioetic energy. The choreography certainly moves have the move the anywhere in particular. The company dances it with an easy charm, but the work.

Liv Ullmann Does

An Autobiography OSLO, Aug. 18 (Reuters)-Liv Ullmann has written an autobiography, which has been unanimously hailed as a literary achievement by the press in her native Norway.

Rather than being a mere chronicle of events, "The Change" Is an effort by Miss Ullmann to give expression to woman and a mother.

The book contrasts poig-nant childhood experieoces

The great divide in her life —indeed the most dramatic "change"—is her five years with Ingmar Bergman, with whom she had a child, Linn. The book is dedicated to their daughter.

Describing her break-up with the director, she says.

"After a while I was the object of his jealousy, violent and without limits. Frieods and family, even memories, become a threat to our re-latiooship. We had been a revolution to each other, and became each other's hell. I craved absolute security and protection. He yearned for a mother. His dream was the whole woman, all in one piece, but I crumbled up into small anxiety-ridoen pieces at times. His hunger for to-getherness was insatiable." One theme of the book is "What I remember best," she says. "is the feeling of being left out. The feeling of having been abandoned. I am lying in my oed at night, and hear the grownups laughing and talking in the living room. Thinking, that when I grow up, I shall be part of that wonderful world of ideas and jaughter. But I am grown up, and I am still left out. And I believe all the others partake of that great togetherness."

LOOMIS IS PUSHED

OPPENHEUL N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP) — In the spirit of the Bicentennial, residents of this small community in Fuiton County and those of Terra Alta, W. ya, are coping the nation will get the message sent by Mahlon Loomis 110 years ago. Loomis is considered by many with being the inventor of wireless radio, which is historically credited to Guglieimo Marconi. Loomis patented, his device in July 1872, based on an experiment in Virginia in: 1866 in which he used kites to raise copper wire antennae en lountain peaks and transmitted a signal over the 14mile distance between them.

'Revelations' Remains a Great Experience

now after its possibly initial novelty, hardly compels

"Cry" and "Revelations" are altogether different matters. They are art conventions in the Ailey repertory the one being a solo forever to be associated with the company's princi-pal dancer, Miss Jamison, and the other because it is so clearly the company's signature work.

It is amazing what Miss
Jamison can still get oot of "Cry," that paean of praise and shout of agony for the black woman now moving through our America. Her body has a style of its own —large, almost awkward, it stealthily bounces its way through music with a kind of somber majesty.

Nothing can be said of "Revelations" that has not been said. It remains Mr. Alley's best work, and this communion of spirituals and daoce provides one of the great choreographic experiences of our time.

The company never fails to rise to the occasion of "Revelations," and in the finale it swings its way to never less than moving. It was a good performance. but perhaps one should spe-cifically mark out Mari Kajiware and Clive Thompson in the "Fix Me Jesus" duet and Dudley Williams in the solo "I Want to Be the solo "I Want to Be Ready." But in "Revelations" the entire Ailey Company is always fixed and

Further, they competed in the International Musicians impetition io Munich last September, and got to the semifinals.

In their initial appearances at Fraunces Tavern Miss Las-kowski, Mr. Lepatin and Mr. Smeyers were joined by Sylvia Trembowelski, 22 of Manhatten, a graduate of the Manhattan School of Music.

"We're surprised it [the iavern apperances] got start-ed—it had been first mentioned in May-and shocked that it lasted more than one night, but they haven't sbut the door on us yet," Mr. Smeyers said.

"It'e something like playing on the street, except here we get our meals."

DEAD OF NIGHT.

1:20, 415, 7:10, 10:10.

Arlo Guthrie, who appears at the Schaefer Festival in Central Park at 6:30 tomerrow night, used to be a more familiar figure than ba is today. He is Woody's son, of course and his vocal and physical resemblance to Bob Dylan, his own innocently good-natured, politically concerned folk songs and above all his role in the film "Alice's Restaurant" - inspired by his song-brought him cootinually before the public.

"But he appears less often in New York these days, and when he does it's just as likely to be a little-publicized college data or a joint appearance with Pete Seeger as it is at a solo recital.

But if he's less visible in New York, he still works steadily and actively, and Mr. Guthrie reported the other dey from his home to the Berkshires that his new record, "Amigo"—his first in two years—will be released any day now.

"I haven't done a record recently because I just never got around to it," the singer explained in his frieodly

Mr. Guthrie and his wife and three childreo (the youngest just one month old) value their family life, and Mr. Guthrie's concertizing varies with his mood.

'A Lot of Energy'

"Last year, we didn't do as much as we've already done this year," be says.
"We" means himself and Sbenandoah, a four-man band of Massachusetts musicians that both accompanies him and plays on its own. "I bave a lot of energy this year. Some years I really feel like pushing, and some years I feel like sitting back and listening to the leaves rustle. We'll only have three or four weeks off the whole year this

Mr. Guthrie's records haven't sold massively, for all their intermittent charms, and the singer admits a preference for live concerts

"I like doing concerts better," he says. "I like live theater. That's where I really can do what I like doing. We've been doing a lot of that, although oot so much in New York-it's been a lot of small-clubs and school things and benefits."

Throwbacks to the 60's Mr. Guthrie and his band are among the most politically active of todey'a popular artists, genuine throwbacks to the 1960's, wheo every folk siogar strummed for a cause. Not all of bis concerts are benefits, to be sure. But even if they're not, many of his songs deal with specific political concerns, and there is usually an information booth where interested audience members cao inform themsalves further about issues that are close to Mr.

So far this year the singer has sung for attempts to ban nuclear power plants and the initiative to preserve the California coastline, and is considering concerts for the American Indian movement and the Black Panthers. In addition, he recently finished a campaign tour with former Senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma, an unsuccessful aspirant for the Democratic Presideotial nomination.

Really Getting Smarter "We never expected be'd be President," Mr. Guthrie readily admits. But we thought it would have some impact on the Democratic platform, and we think it was pretty successful."

Mr. Guthrie, who prefers to consider himself a "social" rather than a "politicall". artist-"Politics tend to fluctuate, but social restructuring is happening all the time"-refuses to be passimistic about the decline of mass activism on college campuses.

"What's happening is that people are really getting smarter about it," he argues. "There are fewer people than there were in the 60's but those who are there are a lot more dedicated and together. They are not so easily put off, and they're making changes that are reaching the Congressional level."

Despite his resemblances to that other 60's political folk singer, Mr. Dylan, Mr. Guth-rie is an altogether sunnier and less driven artist. Still, the musical similarities are marked, and Mr. Guthrie happily admits them.

"I was more influenced by Dylan's songs than by my fa-ther's," ba says. 'They made an impact on me the same way my father's songs made an impact on Ramblin' Jack Elliott and even Dylan. I grew up feeling the power of those songs and those lyrics. I write like that now because I feel that's how I can best express myself.

"When I had finished recording the Victor Jara" song on the new album, somebody said it sounded like 'Desolation Row.' I hadn't thought of it, but it does, and that's O.K. I know where Dylan got his ideas-nothing wrong with people knowing where I get mine."

Mr. Guthrie'a outwardly sunny borizon might seem clouded, however. His father died of a rare wasting disease called Huntingtun'a Chorea Mr. Guthrie is 29 years old now, and there is a 50-50 chance he will inherit the disease, which manifests itself at about the age of 35. It is incurable.

'Billy Joe' Leaps From Southern Romance to Dirge sponsible; and so is the imtive characterization: marred

1 By RICHARD EDER

"Ode to Billy Joe" is a movie to lament 1ts authors heve ruined it. To say so is praise as well as regret. You can only ruln something that has some quelity to begin with, and for more than half its length tius Southern country romance has a quite indi-viduel kind of life and

This first part also has its flaws. Sometimes it is cute where it's supposed to ba soft where it's supposed to be lush. It is too beavily apparent that the director is pleased with what he's doing, and his breath all but fogs the camera. But he has some reason to be pleased, if only he would step beck a little. Instead, after an bour or so, he steps forward, grabs his movie with both hands and

A decede ago the singer Bobby Gentry brought out e song about a Mississippi Delta boy called Billy Joe McAllister who jumped off a Callahatchie River bridge and died. The song was oblique: At didn't say why he jumped. at hinted at but didn't specify n relationship between Billy loc and the girl singer/pro-tagonist. Tens of thousands teen-agers stayed up late arguing the gaps,

The Cast

ODE TO BILLY JOE, directed by Mae, Baer, written by Herman Raucher; produced by Mr. Baer and Roger Campass; director of simularyably, Michael Huso; edited by Frank Morris, Released by Warmer Bros, Al Lenson Clate II, U.A. Columbia I and other Insubers. Running time: 100 minutes. This mayie has been rated PG. Billy Joe McAllister... Robby Benson-Bobble Lee Hartley. Glynnis O'Comor Anna Hartley... Joan Hotchkis Glern Hartley... Sandy McPeak

Max Baer, the director, has extended the song into a two-hour film. Its virtue lies in the setting-out of the two characters — Billy Joe and a girl named Bobby —their timid and then more demanding courtship, the families, the rural back-ground. Its failure comes when Mr. Baer tries to stuff these two, with all their liveliness and appeal, into the soog, end invents ao answer to the mystery that is gro-tesquely out of keeping with the life be has established up to then.

The story develops in a per-fectly familiar and conventional way. Bobby is the daughter of a hard-working cotton farmer, a strict, religious man saved from dourness by a wary charm and a ghost of humor. These laavening characteristics save bim from being simply a stock figure. Here, as in other places.

pressive acting of the character, played by Sandy Mc-

Bobby is courted by a neighbor boy, an eager, grandiloquent, charming youth who seems to sprout in all directions et once. 'He keeps popping up and introducing himself," Bobby's father complaios; and at another point. wheo Billy Joe bas come up after church io touching fina ginger suit and white they look like he's shoes, been kicking vanilla ice The young people are tormented by their pull toward each other. Again, Mr. Baer's writing and the ability of the two actors make it aomething more than a sentimental cliche: There is an apt balancing of love and lust.

The two collide with each other, with the grownups around them, with the tradi-tions of their setting. The set-ting is splendidly done at times; overdone at others. Mr. Baer and bis cameraman have captured beat, the sbeen of perspiration on the skin, the oppressive greenery, the blue-black stormclouds of the Delta country. They work drama-but not invalidated by sentimentality and excessiveoess. Glynnis O'Connor, as long as the lioes allow, is rebellious, thoughtful and funoy as Bobby. Robby Benson, playing Billy Joe, manages his bois-terous, wooly-headed role with great charm.

But Mr.Baer wants to get the song in, and so Billy Joe has to jump off the bridge. The reason given for his dobitrary and without any logical or emotional relation to what has gone herore. It drains all the momeotum from the film and turns it into ridiculous melodrama.

And after all this comes a long, fatuous epilogue in which Bobby explains that she will keep the real reason for Billy's jump a secret, so as not to spoil the legend. What legend? He has only just finished drowning. The movia drowned some time earlier. ·

The movie is rated PG. Some of the scenes between the lovers are explicit, though emotionally ruther .. than physically. In addition, the rating may rest on the discussion of the particular sexual problem that led to Billy tically as well as pictorially. This first part develops with an attractive balance of bumor, sympathy and percep-Joe's jump.

TONE TEAMS Jazz dom-inates most of the free midday programs in the midtown area, but today the sounds will be those of Mexico as Mariachi 70, one of that country's leading groups of mariachi instrumentalists, performs starting at 12:30 P.M. in the Channel Gardens of Rockfeller Center. The program is in conjunction with "Friendly Faces & Near-by Places" Day in New York, an event sponsohed the Mexican National Tourist Council.

Down the way from Rocke-feller Center, the public is also invited to look in at the G. Schirmer music store at 4 East 49th Street at 1:30 P.M., as the West Side Madrigalists render a program of American compositions.

HORIZONS Two new Off Off Broadway entries are show-casing material unfamiliar to the current theater

A musical drama called "200 RPM" (for revolutions per minute) deals with working men and women of America, and some visionaries who helped to shape the course of justice. The Labor Theater's production has lyrics and music by Charlotte Brody and Si Kahn. To a folk-music beat, the show extolis the lives of such figures as Frederick B. Douglass, Victoria Woodhull, Susan B. Anthony, John Brown, Eugene V. Debs and Cesar Chavez

The Thursday-through Sun-day performances are at the Hudson Guild Theater at 102 East 4th Street. More information is at 477-0993.

Bart Midwood's new drama, 'The Dance of Mata Hari," is set in the beroine's prison cell before her execution as a spy in 1917. A prologue reviews her life. The new work will attempt to cut through legend—one bi-ography questions that Mata-Hari was a spy at all—to the complex woman, played by Elaine Sulka, whose name has become synonymous with glamorous treason. Robin Hirsch is director.

Performances are Wednesdays through Sundays at the Theater et St. Clement's, 423 West 46th Street. For information, call 246-7277.

Pessimism on Gold, Optimism on Stocks adviser who watches the Ore., rather than Wall Street, sues as a heoge against in-flation and the vicissitudes of the market itself.

The adviser, Lawrence H. Heim, who beads Heim Investment Services, persisted in the gold-stock strategy until June 1975, wheo he made a rather dramatic reversal and advised his clients to sell their gold shares and go into cash.

There were other investment advisers who regarded gold then not as a "seli" but a "buy," and his recom-mendation caused considerable consternation. The plunging price of gold bullion in markets abroad from a peak of nearly $198 an ounce at the end of 1974 to the $165 level when the Heim sell recommendation was made-was a critical factor in his decisioo. The value of Mr. Heim's advice was underscored yesterday, when the price of gold tumbled abroad by $2.75 an ounce to $108 50 or close to its lowest level of this year.

But what is he saying now? Is it time to buy?
The word from Mr. Heim is that gold still remains under selling pressure. "Our own predictions are that gold will go below $100." he says, "with some hesitation possible at the $100 level."

He says he detects "good

He says he detects "good support" at a price of $90, "The majo reason why gold will remain under pressure is the lieavy supply of gold which is expected to be placed on the market," he explains. "The International Monetary Fund has scheduled its third auction for Sept. 15, with a plan to offer another .780,000 ounces of gold.

"There are no indications that the auction will be canceled, although there may be celed, although there may be some technical changes in the form of the auction."

Furthermore, Mr. Heim points to the likelihood of additional gold sales by the Soviet Union and South Africa, and his view is that the United States Treasury also "seems ready to dump more "seems ready to dump more gold any time that the gold price might appear to be turning up."

On the New York Stock Exchange, ASA touched a yearly-low of 15 yesterday before closing at 151% with a loss of 34. It sold at a peak price of 521% in 1974, adjusted for last year's 2-for-1 solit. split.
The rationale for watching

ASA's market action-and there is certainly risk inherent in it-is explained by a trader who prefers to remain anooymous.

"It all hinges on what may happen later this year in the stock market," he says. "If stocks move aggressively higher toward yearend, you might see ASA haomered by selling for tax-loss purposes."

"If that happens, and if'

at $1 a pound.

Encouraged by passenger response so far, Mr. Lewis said he was hopeful of bettering the record of his ill-fated predecessor, Downtown Airlines, which operated seaplane flights for about two years before going out of business in 1974. The demise was laid to the high fares: $27 one way to Philadelphia and $47 to Washington.

The owner of radio station WHBI-FM and a Riverside

WHBI-FM and a Riverside Drive apartment building at 80th Street, Mr. Lewis said he hit on his idea of starting the air service around 1969, while gazing out of his win-dow at the clogged highway traffic and then at the wide-open Hudson River beyond.

"The water made this city, he noted. But it was not sole-ly out of idealism that he pressed his project. "The se-cret of making money is to provide something the public needs, desires and wants." he

He checked Federal transportation figures and supplemented these with his owo counts at Amtrak rail stations, coocluding that the New York-Philadelphia corriheavily traveled in the region: 14.6 million persontrips a year (nearly triple that for New York-Washington, for example.)

When he decided to start a seaplane service, he said, the venture required five years to obtain the financing. DeHaviland offers a planebuy-back guarantee at 80 per cent of the purchase price so there was little difficulty in eventually getting a bank to put up the $718,000 for the seaplane. But a 122,000 but up cash for a $130,000 han-gar on the Hackeosack River. Mr. Lewis pays $7,000 rent annually to the city for the landing dock. He works out of his apartment building and has 11 employees, including two pilots and himself.

"He hopes soon to win city approval for a second New York landing dock at 34th
Street and the East River.

Other U.S. Stock Exchanges GRAIN FUTURES UP Prices Reflect Commercial Buying and Dry Weather CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—After two days of sharp declines, grain futures turned around today and, with soybeans, advanced from 3 to 7 PHILADELPHIA beans, advanced from 3 to 7 cents a bushel. Soybeans closed the day 7 cents, wheat 3 and oats 3. Soybean meal advanced some $\overline{1}{3}\text{ too, while soy oil closed more than 50 points higher. Iced broilers rose about one cent a pound, geoerally reflecting some strength in red meat futures as well as in eggs. Live cattle closed 7 cents per 100 pounds lower to 87 cents higher, while live hogs were up $1.37 per 100 pounds. Pork bellies gained up to the limit of 2 cents a pouod Shell eggs were 70 points lower to 55 higher at the fioal bell. The buying in soybeans followed a good commercial demand for meal aod oil, and as the soybean complex advanced, wheat, corn and oats turned around. Some of the later buying in grains appeared to have been set off by reports of needed moisture in sections of Iowa. Hinois and lodiana and a lack of grain movement away from farms. New buying was also activated by trade reports of lingering drought in Europe. The rise in live hog futures was linked with the strength in grains as well as some reduction in hog marketings. Porkbelly buying was spurred by the possibility of only a minimal carryover of storage stocks into the new marketing season. All 1977 contracts bit the limit. Commodity Exchanges Get cents a bushel. Foreign Stock Exchanges TORONTO MONTREAL Commodity Exchanges Get More Time to Curb Abuses WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UPI) — The Commodity Futures Trading Commission has given five futures trading exchanges in New York City additional time to come up with plans for curroing trading abuses. The commission told the exchanges on July 23 to produce detailed plans for reform of their self-policing programs within 30 days or face the possibility of disciplinary action that could range up to loss of their operating permits, Last week, however, the commission of the deadline, it was disclosed yesterday. WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UPI) LONDON BRUSSELS TOKYO of the deadline, it was disclosed yesterday. A commission spokesman said officials had agreed to meetings in late August and early September with leaders of the exchanges—the New York Cocoa Exchange, the Commodity Exchange Inc., the New York Mercantile Exchange, the New York Cotton Exchange and the New York Commodities for the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange. Today's session was the third of its kind this week, and Mr. Carter plans two more before he starts active campaigning, after Labor Day. According to participants, he listeos and asks questions but does not assert licy views hlmself come only when he briefs news persons and responds to ques-

The only participant to speak at the news briefing today was Marina V. N. Whitman, who was a member of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Nixon. She stressed that "Ibis area is not one of great partisan division—there is a very wide range of consen-

On the international mone tary question, where negotia-tions have been completed and Congress and other parliaments are in the process of ratifying amendments to the charter of the International Monetary Fund, Mr. Carter was asked about recent complaints that Japan had artificinily kept

The catharsis of striking what she felt was one more fruitless blow for consumer-ism put Bridget in a better frame of mind, and so she was quite unprepared for what followed 10 days later: a letter from the company's entitled her to two free halfgallons of ice cream at her favorite supermarket. The Bridgets of this world have long since had their cooscicusoess raised. That's why more and more corporations are adding consumer affairs specialists to their staffs. It is a phenomenon that Bridget has carefully noted. The next time she writes a complaining letter, she intends to adaress it to the consumer affairs director.

That's one of the first steps in the complainer's manual. Bridger might have got even faster action if she had written a letter to the president of the corporation by name. That is often times difficult in these days of the faceless conglomerate, but such sources as Standard & Poor's "Register of Corporations, Directors and Executives"— available in most libraries are good places to find names and addresses.

In some companies the consumers affairs people are simply an arm of the public relations department. Free ice cream is an easy gesture to make. The outcome in Bridget's case might have been somewhat different if

The amount of leverage those agencies have varies from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. In many states they have no regulatory clout at all. Even io New York City. where the Department of Consumer Affairs has the power to suspend or revoke an entrepreneur's license to do business, such ageocies tend to be undermanned and overworked. Their main stock in trade is suasion. It sometimes is enough. Could one of the Federal Could one of the Federal regulatory agencies have helped Bridget? Not for a balf gallon of ice cream. But there are places in Washington to go with unresolved complaints about mail order companies (noodelivery of damage in shipment), or unsettled tiffs with an airlice over such items as an overbooked flight.

The very last step in the complainer's manual, of course, is court—but probably not until rour lawyer has dashed off a couple of very strong letters under his most litigious looking letterhead.

All litigation is risky, particularly since Uncle Sam absorbs half of the businessman's legal fees as a necessary cost of doing business, while you have the dubious joy of paying 100 percent of your own freight—unequal odds at best.

Eveo small-claims court, the so-called "people's court," is no paoacea. The cost is low enough, but the outcome uncertain. When in doubt, say consumer specialists write; write anyone you think might do you some good. Bridget's note, after all, brought 100 per cent on her original investment and that's not a bad return io any game.

Unilever

The Directors of Unilever announce the results for the second quarter of 1976 and for the first half-year.

As has been our practice the results for the quarter and the half-year and the comparative figures for 1975 have been calculated at comparable rates of exchange being based on $\hat{x} = \text{Fl. } 5.43 = \text{US } \2.02 , which were the closing rates for 1975. Profit attributable to ordinary capital for the current quarter and the half-year has also been recalculated at the rates of exchange current at the end of June 1976 heing based on $\mathfrak{S}1=\mathrm{Fl.}\,4.86=\mathrm{US}\,\1.78 .

The results for the second quarter were much better than those for the second quarter of last year. For the first half year the results were well ahead of those of the very depressed corresponding period of 1975.

Volume of sales in the quarter was again substantially above that of the corresponding quarter of last year and accounted for the greater part of the

to responding quarter of last year and accounted for the greater part of the 12 percent increase in sales value.

Io Europe the recovery of sales and profits of all the main product groups continued, particularly for edible fats and products for industrial uses, which were most adversely affected in 1975. The warm summer in most of Europe contributed to good ice cream results. The meat business in the UK and the Netherlands still operated at a loss. Dairy products showed an improvement. However, profit margins in Europe have not recovered to the levels which were customery a few years are and easy representate of sales when the development.

customary a few years ago and as a percentage of sales were still not adequate. Profits in North America were affected by a prolonged strike in some of Lever Brothers factories: the dispute has now ended. In the other countries outside Europe total sales and profits continued to develop well, particularly in our detergent husinesses. UAC International remained very successful.

The average rate of taxation was below the exceptionally high 1975 level and the greater liquidity was reflected in interest earned: as a result profit attributable to ordinary capital rose more than operating profit.

Design and Agency Cooperation

By LEONARD SLOANE

Wheo an advertising egency and a design firm work together to implement a coinpany's identification system, the results can be synergistic or cheotic. Isn't it nicer wheu the former occurs?
The BASF Wyandotte Corporation reports that synergism was a result when Gerstman & Meyers, its design firm, and Warner, Bicking & Fenwick, its agency, cooperated over the last year on the new image developed for its institutional cleaning products. And since both outside concerns are still on retaioer, the client must be pleased with their mutual

"We wanted to create a new market image for our chemical specialties and industrial cleaning products group," said Peter Banner, director of edvertising and sales pro-motion of BASF. "You just can't go to someone in the back room and say, 'Design me a pretty label."

Instead, Mr. Banner went to G.&M., which had pre-viously worked for the company on other projects, with the assignment to come up with an identification program for its cleaning and maintenance supplies and service. The designer created e two-tone blue wavy emblem that would be applied not only to advertising, but also to packaging, uniform and other function.

At that point, the agency developed the marketing con-cept that would utilize this design for maximum effectiveness. If developed the title "blue wave" for the emblem and added Trugarda proprietary name owned by the company for a specific part of its line—to create
theme for the eotire group.
"We've received reports from salesmen io the field that this has reelly helped them a great deal," said Alan Rinfred, Warner Bicking's account executive for BASF, en American subsidiary of BASF Aktiengesellschaft Lud-wigshafen of West Germany. "There's no doubt that the awareness of the company has risen."

Herbert Meyers, a priocipal of G. & M., called the coordinated effort "e jelling of thoughts. The theme, as applied to packages, trucks, etc., is also used verbally and promotionally throughout the company. So everybody's going in the same direction."

Mr. Meyers added thet his firm had worked closely with

Company Votes Sought By Kansas City Agency

The Republican Party met to choose its candidate for President last night, but at least one other group in Kan-sas City is still vying for

The Kansas City Agency— third largest agency there with annual billings of $11 million - receotly mailed to 2,000 potential clients a large political poster and hallot. The poster shows a large po-dium occupied on the right by the three principals of the egency (Ian Morant, Lewis A. Berey and Chet Kane) and on the left by President Ford and Ronald Reagan.

The headline reads: "America. There is an alternative in Kansas City." The alternative refers not to politicians but to advertising, and interested companies can use the ballot to vote.

The agency was formed seven years ago by the Synergistic Communications Group after seeing its new products development compaoy-New Products Insights Inc.—lose to other agencies products ready for test that N.P.I. had developed. And now with national attention drawn to Kansas City, the agency wants to get on the bandwagon ad egencies in the past when new designs were created.

"Our attitude is that the agency as packaging specialists should have a responsihility for the overall market-ing approach," he said. "They should always be involved."

According to Mr. Meyers, the best relationship is a triumverate with participation from and consultations among the client, the ageocy and the designer. "Otherwise we'd all be working in e vacuum," he said.

And everyone knows that there are no blue waves in a

Lighted Truck Stoppers'

Geoeral Advertising of Co-lumbus, Ohio, an outdoor advertising agency, has introduced illumination to its "truck stoppers." Introduced two years ago, truck stoppers are the agency's version of a billboard on wheels—road-side ads placed on the trail-ers of over-the-road trucks.

By lighting them up, the signs will also be seen at night and create more im-pressions. It will be a year before all 50,000 of the billboards on wheels are con-

Antenna Drive Opens

The Antenna Specialists Company of Cleveland, the nation's largest maoufacturer of acteonas for Citizens Band radios, began this week e $2 million national radio campaign.

Using four 60-second commercials, which will run 1,900 times for the next 52 weeks, the campaign will zero in on potential buyers. many of whom, the company says, "know little about the technical aspects of C.B."

Wyse Advertising to Cleve-land, recently appointed by the company to handle the campaign, was also assigned the company's monitor and marine antenas. For this campaign the agency is using the advertising theme "stripes of quality" — redand-black stripes that are seen on the company's prod-ucts and packaging — to create a zebra that will ap-pear in supporting print ads, displays and packaging.

Samsonite Rejects Some Media

The Samsonite Corporation joined the ranks yesterday of companies that have refused to place advertising in media promoting excessive violence, sex or matters of poor taste." Last year, the company spent about $1.8 million for advertising, most of it

Richard W. Hanselman, president of the luggage and outdoor furniture company, said in a statement: "As a responsible advertiser and a concerned corporation, we reserve the freedom and privilege to determine the at-mosphere in which our commercials will be shown. Given the possible link be-tween televised violence and actual aggressive behavior by some individuals, we feel it is important to encourage those programs which, in our judgment, attempt to achieve high standards in television performance." One of Samsonite's agencies is the J. Walter Thompson Company, which has led the recent campaign against violence in the media. Mr. Hanselman emphasized that this was not a coincidence.

Rise in Cost Predicted

The average cost of medie for national advertisers is expected to increase 13.5 percent next year, following an 8.5 percent rise in 1976. That is the word from Media Decisions magazine, wbich printed a media cost review and forecast in its August

Mortgage Lending Rises by 40.1%

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Mortgage lending in Amer-lca reached an estimated $7.7 billion, up 40.1 per cent from the former record figure in July 1975, the United States League of Savings Association reported Wednesday. The league, a trade organization, surveyed 542 savings and loan associations. It found that July 1975 mortgage-lending volume stood at $5.5 billion and loan commitments for future months this year are very strong. The high mortgage lending volume should continue for some time, it said,

On the savings side, associations raised deposits by an estimated $3.2 billion during July. This was 4.7 per cent above the $3.1 billion of July 1975. Gains in deposits for the first seven months of 1976 were estimated at $30.5

Personal Income Soars for Month

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UPI—The nation's total personal income in July posted its largest one-month advance in almost a year, the Government said today. A substantial gain in wages and saiaries last month coupled with a major cost-of-living increase for Social Security benefits pushed the natioo's total personal income up $13.9 billion. This represents the largest one-mooth increase sloce August 1975, when it increased $15.5 billion. Personal income is the aggregate income received by all Americana from all

The considerable July increase puts personal income at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.38 trillion, 1-per cent higher than the upward-revised June figure of $1.37 trillion, the department said.

cannot fully explain, Mr. LaMonica was never paid during his first two and half years of service, despite what he recalls as continuous protests to his superiors. From 1971 to 1974, he was absent without leave. But the Army, which has now con-firmed the basic details of the basic details of Mr. LaMonica's military ca-reer, never missed him.

A Status of Nothing

"I was really in had shape," Mr. LaMonica said this week, "I was nothing nn the face of the earth." Late in 1973, he telephoned the Federal Bureau of Investigation to turn himself in. The F.B.I. told him he was a free man. The Army had never listed him as a deserter; in fact, it had no record of him.

Mr. LaMonica's problems with the Army might have ended then, but the soft-spoken Brooklyn resident was determined to set the record straight, so he kept trying to find the records the F.B.I. said did not exist. Early in 1974, after Mr.

LaMonica had made hundreds of telephone calls, a sergeant at Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana found his records. The sergeant told Mr. La-

Mr. LaMonica asked tha sergeant in Indiana to send his records to Fdrt Dix, N. J., where he had last served. There, he thought, he would straighten everything out.

He was there notil Nov. 28, 1975, when he was honorably discharged.

Army officials say it is not unusual for a soldier to re-ceive an administrative determinatinn keeping him in the Army hecause he is charged with having gone A.W.O.L., even after a court-martial has acquitted him of the Sitting in the Manhattan office of his lawyers, Bernier and Fidler, Mr. LaMonica said hia whole experience said his whole experience with the Army was "unbe-lievable." Mr. LaMoulca re-counted his ordeal in detail, reeling off dates and places, even while conceding that the fact that he was not "the hrightest guy in the world" might have contributed to his entanglement in the Army'a vast hureaucracy. Later this month, his lawyers plan to file a $1 million damage suit, charging, among other things, that the Army unlawfully denied Mr. La-Monica the right to re-enlist and the benefits and emolu-ments to which he was entitled.

He had always waoted a military career, and he had even attended Eastern Military Academy in Huntington. L. I., until his parents ran out of money to pay his tri-tion there, he said.

Wheo he entered the Army in 1968, it was the height of the Vietnam War, the year of the Tet offensive. With a rapid huildup in troop strength the Army was in a particularly hectic period.

Desertions on Rise

It was also a period of rapid increase in the Army desertioo rate, which went from 14.9 desertions for each 1,000 men in 1966 to 52.3 in

Within a week of Mr. La-Monica's arrival at Fort Jackson in Columbia, S. C., for basic training, he was told, he remembered, that there was a "mix-up"; his pay would be held up.

"I had a family at bome and I couldn't send them any money," Mr. LaMonica

After five weeks at Fort Jackson, he requested an emergency leave, and he was granted a four-day pass. His wife, he said, was having a nervous hreakdown.

Once back in Brooklyn, he called his commanding officer to request more time off, hut he was refused. He decided he had to stay home longer, and took 25 days without authorization. In September 1968, he turned himself in at Fort Hamilton in Brooklyo.

After one day io jail lo Manhattan, he was sent to Fort Dix, where he expected to be punished for going A.W.O.L., hot he was never disciplined for this first absence. Instead, as his records show, he was placed in a special processing unit at Fort Dix, where he remained for the pext two and a half years. He never completed hasic training—and he still was not getting paid.

"My records were completely lost." Mr. LaMonica said. "Soon I became a permanent fixture"—in a unit where few snidiers ever spend more than a month-and he was also becoming an object

A month later, he received an official Army commeodation for "outstand-ing performance" in assisting a woman in an automo-hile accident on the Ver-razano-Narrows Bridge. Representative Joho J. Rooney, Democrat of Brooklyn, even sent the soldier a letter of congratulation.

Things were going so well in fact, that he decided to re-enlist. But the administrative determination of lost time precluded that His efforts to have the ruling expunged from his records were denied, for the last time, when the Army Board for Correction of Military Records—the final arhiter in auch cases-found "insufficient evidence" to indicate probable material error or injustice."

An Army spokesman, Maj. Frederick Shirley, said the fact that Mr. LaMonica had reached the rank of Specialist 5 indicated "he must have done a good job when he came back."

"It's not uncommon for someone to be completely lost in the system," said David Addlestone, a lawyer in Washington who specializes in military law. "The records can be lost and the person is lost," he said.

Nine months after the end of his seven-year nightmare, Mr. LaMonica is almost philosophical about his experiences as a soldier, al-though his battle with the Army still is not over.

THE MAGAZINE THAT WINS 52 PRIMARIES A YEAR IS THE ONE THAT REACHES THE PEOPLE WHO LISTEN

There are readers and there are readers. Primary audience may well be the best measure of a magazine. Primary readers are the people who live in households that buy the magazine.

Logic tells you that primary audience readers care about a magazine. They spend more time with it, read it on more different days, get more enjoyment from it. And according to research, logic is right. They are the most involved readers.

T.V Guide wins with a primary audience of 33.8 million adults a week. Week after week. Compare that to any other magazine. Look at the difference between primary and passalong readers. Think of it in terms of reader commitment.

Which is not to say that passalong readers don't read our magazine. We count them in arriving at our total readership of 42.2 million adults. Over 42 million people. That's reach. And in TV Guide you can combine it with the frequency that only a weekly can offer.

You can keep a campaign moving at the pace of television when you buy the big weekly. You can keep awareness up between flights. You can use print to advertise the way you want to. And you can be sure you are reaching people who listen.

In TV Guide, the magazine that wins the primaries.

FIRST IN CIRCULATION.
FIRST IN ADVERTISING REVENUE.
